Local leaders set poverty conference

A two-day conference in "Community Organization in the Inner City," will be held this Saturday and Sunday at the Johns Hopkins University under the sponsorship of the institution's YMCA.

The conference, which hopes to bring together the top local civil rights, church and civic leaders, will be high-lighted by the appearance of sociologist Saul D. Alinsky on Sunday.

Mr. Alinsky, nationally known for his perfected organizational skill and for his insight into minority problems, will be part of an impressive roster of keynote speakers who will address the conference on the need for community organization in order to insure a proper implementation of the funds which have been made available through the Federal Government's War on Poverty.

Among those on the program are: Dr. Harris Chaiklin, Edward L. Holmgren, Dr. Roy Borom, Stanley Mazer, the Rev. Herbert Edwards, Dr. Homer Favor, the Rev. Marion C. Bascom, Walter Lively, Sister Maria Mercedes, Walter Carter, Father Joseph Connolly and Mrs. Madeline Murphy.
