Provident Auxiliary annual tea marks another success

By Lula Jones Garrett

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER substituting for Mrs. Mackay who is on vacation

Charles Mason was the lone Male in the Pinnie Ross Fashion Show, which was a very interesting feature of the annual tea at Provident Hospital Annex Sunday past.

The Tea was a "Get-together," "Get-Acquainted" hour for the Hospital Volunteers, and the fashions were narrated by Willa Bland of the Hospital Auxiliary. Hostess for the occasion was Senior Volunteer Chairman — Ida Swanson — who wore a double-knit suit in Burgundy with a grey shell of the same material, although Mrs. Swanson was not modeling.

Mrs. Betty Mason, however was stunning in her beautiful indirectly - styled gown. Miss Mason's radiance helped her win as this year's "Miss Coppin." Another attractive model was Mrs. Mary Dorsey, a public school teacher. The doll of the show was Pinnie's daughter-Rae Ross, who modeled in pink.

Howard Brown of the Pathology staff of Provident Hospital, furnished scintillating music for the transitional Fashions and Hats, modeled by Mrs. Ross's bevy of manniquins. His display of art attracted much attention, with special mention of the drawings in word-form and the one entitled "The Los."

Seeing these drawings is a must for all art-lovers. Not only were the pieces tastefully arranged, but the colors used by Mr. Brown were interesting unto depth and symmetry.

The fine feature of Mr. Brown's performance is his solo work. His renditions included, "Without A Song" and "If I Could Help Somebody". When Mr. Brown is engaged for this type affair, his muic is a continuous feature to the program.

Harrison Thompson was accompanied by Frank Byron. Among guests were Misses Jean Uttley and Mae Tucker of staff for Congressman Samuel N. Friedel; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Orlinsky from the office of Senator Joseph Tydings, in Washington.

Others included Mrs. Alberta Sims, Mr. and Mrs. C. Orchinsy of the V.G.A.'s. Refreshments were served by the Women's Auxiliary and the Senior Volunteers.

THE BALTIMORE chapter of the Chit Chat Club entertained its sister chapter from Philadelphia, Saturday ago.

The Pennsylvanians arrived by train at 1 p.m., dined at Maceo's and went on to the Vickers Road home of Iola Minson for cards and a later repast.

The visitors included Minnie Taylor, who heads that group; Katheryn King, Addie Headew, Gladys LeCato, Gladys Epps.

Also Jeanette Williams, Catherine Scruggs, Mae Ella Johnson, Mea Briscoe, Lucille Pierce and Mary Byrd.

The Baltimore club has as local guests, Mathilde Prestwidge, Lillian Bates and Margaret Lattimore. Aubrey Williamson and Alice Nixon kept score.

The prizes went to Mrs. Taylor, first; Mrs. Epps, second; Mrs. Boyd, third, of Philadelphia; and to Marie Murphy, the over-all prize; Idella Grant, first; Dorothy Gladden, second; Emma Jones, third and Dorothy Tilghman, of Baltimore, fourth.

Other members of the hostess club were Lendora Houston, Mary E. Holmes, Elaine Taylor, Mary W. Milla, Mrs. Morphelia Winston, Mary McCray and Beatrice Brown, president of the club.

DR. MARTIN D. JENKINS president of Morgan State College, and Mrs. Elizabeth Jenkins, his wife, are on a motor trip through Indiana and Illinois, will return Monday. The 10 - day event includes recruiting teachers for the college at the Universities of Indiana and Illinois and all other likely institutions of higher learning.

And 'tis a sentimental journey for the Morgan chief since his home is in Vigo County, Indiana near Terre Haute. According to a post card, their trip proves sycamores on the banks of the Wabash are loveliest in autumn.

School 106 students hold realistic election

A new twist was given to the recent Student Council elections at Harvey Johnson Junior High School No. 106. To simulate an actual city - wide election, the students at the school — which is located in the Sixth District — were divided into wards and precincts.

In order to vote for candidates from one of three parties — the Federalists, the Populists and the Progressives — students had to show their voter's identification cards, issued by the Student Council.

The Populist Party emerged victorious with its candidates, Carlton Walker, president; Ronald Summerville, vice president, and Marilyn Sewell, treasurer.

Veronica Imes also won as she ran unopposed for the post of secretary.

Other candidates were: Williamette Lucky, Gresser Ferrell, Mattie Nelson, Willard Witherspoon, Verge Harper and Stephen Myes. Campaign managers were Mary Green, Charles Rhodes and Kenneth Witherspoon.

Prior to the actual voting, Dr. Robert Gill, professor of government and political science at Morgan State College, spoke to the student body on the importance of voting.

Union Memorial WSCS study hour opens Sunday

The Woman's Society of Christian Service at Union Memorial Methodist Church begins its new study course Sunday, Nov. 14 at 1 p.m. at the church on Harlem a n d Warwick Aves. The public is invited to attend.

The subject for instruction, one recommended by the parent body, is entitled, "Missions, the Christian's Calling." Mrs. Mary Jones, secretary of Missionary Education of Union, is teacher. Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson is president.
