Sinatra: A Man Rarely At Ease

By I. DIALWELL

Shortly before CBS was due to air its news - special on Frank Sinatra, a number of stories appeared implying that Mr. Sinatra and the network had reached an impass over some segments of the one - hour show. There was even talk of suing CBS if it went ahead as planned.

Well, last Tuesday, as scheduled, the program appeared at 10 p.m. and left this viewer (as no doubt others) wondering what all the noise was about. Was it just another publicity stunt?

The theme of the show was flattery and more flattery (much of which Mr. Sinatra deserves, for whatever else he may seem to be, he is a first class, serious artist). What criticism did creep into the presentation was negated by the consistent praise (which Walter Cronkite kept heaping on the little man with the "fantastic voice."

By the way, one thing is clear. As long as Mr. Sinatra is singing, who could possibly wish to be nasty.

AS FAR as the film itself, it was visually appealing, even if somewhat less exciting than what one might have expected. The narration was tactful, even if it lacked any significant insight or, for that matter, anything new.

All through the show, however, something failed to ring true. I for one, could not help but think that I was looking at Frank the actor, Frank the showman, never at Frank the person. And here is where the show seems to have gone astray.

During the interviews, Mr. Sinatra seemed far less comfortable than he would have liked us to believe. He was not very convincing while trying to set his "tough guy" image straight. And at no time was he at ease with the big words he kept using.

At one point he tried to say "scandalous." What he did say was: "scandulous."

But this is a minor criticism and hardly detracts from his talents or from his evident charity and sense of personal loyalty. But it does indicate that he is trying to be something he is not.

That also came across when he was shown clowning with his buddies (and who doesn't know who they are?). The only time he seemed at ease was when he held on to the microphone and sang. Then it was clear that he thought he had no competition at all and it was then that one caught a glimpse of what he really is: A man rarely at ease.

MR. AND MRS. LUTHER DIXON rock an' roll stars wed in Baltimore

Popular recording stars wed here

Double-ring wedding ceremonies at the parsonage of Douglas Memorial Church Monday night joined popular recording star, Ines Fox and song writer and publisher, Luther Dixon.

The Rev. Marion Bascom, Douglas pastor, read the vows at 10 p.m. The new Mrs. Dixon is Inez of the famed brother-sister rock and roll team, Ines and Charlie Fox. Their top hit was Mocking Bird and current hit Humming Bird.

Mr. Dixon is composer of the hits "I Don't Want To Cry," "Sixteen Candles," "Tonight" by the Shirrells, and owns publishing firms in New York, and London, England.

The Dixons obtained license to wed at the Baltimore Courthouse last Friday. She and her brother appeared at Princeton University in New Jersey Saturday and at the Vogue Ballroom in Washington Sunday before coming to Baltimore for the Monday ceremonies.

Asked why the rites were scheduled for Baltimore and at such a late hour, Mr. Dixon said it was all done to avoid publicity and to have a "quiet moment to ourselves." They were registered at the Sheraton Belvedere in Baltimore.

FOR HER wedding, Inez wore a pink cocktail frock with a beaded bodice, a pink veil falling from deep pink satin headpiece and carried orchids.

Maid of honor, Dr. Esther Jackson, the Washington physician who is engaged to Charlie Fox, wore a deeper pink cocktail outfit with matching accessories.

Best man was radio WEBB's Rockin' (Fred) Robin. He and the bridegroom gave the bride away and Mrs. Robin stood as a witness.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon will reside at Mr. Dixon's residence in East Elmhurst, Long Island, N.Y. and will be at home after their trip to Europe on Nov. 19. The reception will be held at the Celebrity Club on 125th St. and Madison Ave. in New York just before Inez and Charlie open their Christmas engagement at the Apollo in New York.

On the way to New York Tuesday, the wedding party stopped off in Philadelphia while Inez and Charlie taped TV programs for Civil Rights disc jockey Georgie Woods and the Jerry Blavlock Show.

Rep. Powell, Lena Horne to spark Demo dinner

The entertainment world's beautiful Miss Lena Horne and New York's fiery Congressman Adam Clayton Powell are to highlight a Democratic campaign dinner here Feb. 27 at the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

The $15 a plate affair is under sponsorship of the 4th District Democratic Organization, with the cooperation of the City-Wide Campaign Committee.

Co-chairman for the event are Murray Abramson, 4th District House member and chairman of the city House delegation, and Abner Lee, Liquor Board inspector.

Committee members include; Sen. Welcome, Clarence Mitchell III, and Harvy Epstein, both 4th District House members, Henry G. Parks Jr., city councilman, and William L. Adams, businessman.

Lloyal Randolph is president of the 4th District Democratic Organization.

Congressman Powell will be featured speaker and Miss Horne is expected to render a couple of selections. Both are appearing as special guests of Sen. Verda F. Welcome, who personally invited them.

Because of this foreseen turnout and the matter of space requirements, the Democratic affair is being held in the Lord Baltimore, traditionally a Republic stronghold.

IN RECITAL —Miss Eloise Massey, a mezzo soprano, will be presented at Brown's Memorial Baptist Church Sunday at 4 p.m. Miss Massey is a Western High and Howard U. graduate. She is a member of the Delta Nu Chapter, Sigma Alpha Iota, and plans further study at the Peabody Conservatory.

Thanksgiving proclaimed by President Johnson

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — Text of President Johnson's Thanksgiving proclamation:

For all the blessings that have been bestowed upon our nation during the past twelve months, it is a small thing to give thanks to Almighty God.

When the Pilgrims first observed Thanksgiving nearly 350 years ago, life was harsh and unrelenting. Cold and sickness had diminished their ranks. Their shelter was crude. Their future was uncertain. Yet when their harvest was abundant, they considered themselves blessed and their hearts were filled with gratitude.

Today we have much more than an abundant harvest. Our nation is rich and strong and united in the cause of liberty and justice. Our physical comforts are unmatched anywhere in the world, our medicine has conquered ancient diseases.

IN THIS past year we have added greatly to that national legacy. We have guaranteed the right to vote to all our citizens. We have pledged dignity to our elderly — even in sickness. We have added new dimensions to the education of our youth. We have broadened the horizons of opportunity for our poor. And all the while, we have enjoyed the greatest prosperity in history.

But our real blessings lie not in our bounty. They lie in those steadfast principles that the early Pilgrims forged for all generations to come: The belief in the essential dignity of man; the restless search for a better world for all; and the courage — as shown by our sons in Vietnam today — to defend the cause of freedom wherever on earth it is threatened.

These are the eternal blessings of America. They are the blessings which make us grateful even when the future is uncertain. They are the blessings which give us the strength to complete the unfinished tasks that remain before us.

For these blessings should we thank God most of all.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Lyndon B. Johnson, President of the United States of America, in consonance with the joint resolution of the Congress approved December 26, 1941, designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 25, 1965, as a day of national thanksgiving.

On that day, let us gather in our homes and in places of worship to thank God for His generosity. Let us make ourselves worthy of that generosity by pledging to him our everlasting devotion. And let us pray to him that the forces of violence, indifference and intolerance may soon vanish from the face of the earth so that peace and understanding and love may reign supreme.

Boy, 9, held in shooting of father

The accidental nature of the fatal shooting of a 36 year - old man as he slept on a sofa in his home Wednesday afternoon will have to be determined by the courts, according to police and the State's Attorney's Office.

After questioning in the shooting, the man's nine - year - old son was being held for action at us-held for action of juvenile authorities.

Southwestern District police said they arrived at the home of Allen McLean in the 700 block of Wildwood Parkway to find him lying on the living - room sofa with a bullet wound in the rear of his head about 5:45 p.m.

Taken to Luthern Hospital, Mr. McLean was dead at 6:18 p.m.

Police said the wound was caused by a 6.35 mm. automatic pistol which belonged to the victim's wife, Mrs. Mildred McLean, 36.

Another shot was found in a nearby coffee table, police reported.

MCLEAN'S son was taken to Pine Street Police station, while police conferred Thursday with the State's Attorney's office on whether to bring charges against him.

George J. Helinski, deputy state's attorney, said yesterday the boy would be turned over to the juvenile courts for hearing and would probably be charged as a juvenile delinquent.

This precludes his being tried as an adult in Homicide Court.

Mr. Helinski said no other charges would be brought in the case at this time.

Six ministers officiate at funeral for Rev. King

'He was a sermon walking . . . many hours he sat beside the broken hearts of the sheep . . . he was a shepherd . . . who helped to heal . . . he was a friend . . . it is much better to be a sermon, live one and die one than to preach one . . . we thank Thee for the good his life produced . . .'

The Rev. Frank Williams, minister Metropolitan Methodist Church, was speaking at Tuesday afternoon funeral services for the Rev. Fairfax F. King.

One of the denomination's beloved ministers, the Rev. Mr. King died on Friday after a prolonged illness. He would have been 66 on Dec. 15.

THE REV. Mr. King served churches in Va., Md. and D.C., for 44 years. One of them was the Metropolitan Church, where funeral services were held (1942-47). He was superintendent of the North Baltimore District when he retired in 1953.

Five other ministers participated in the funeral service which the Rev. Mr. King had arranged before his death, even to selecting the scripture lessons the music, and the eulogy.

Other participating ministers were: The Rev. N. B. Harrison, Union Memorial ('The Lord Is My Shepherd') the Rev. Kelly L. Jackson, Shorty St. ('Let not your heart be troubled'); the Rev. Marion Bascom, Douglas Memorial, ('We bring to you beautiful memories of the life led by your servant, Fairfax);

TRIBUTES also came from Dr. Howard L. Cornish, director, Morgan Christian Center, who read poetry ('There is love behind the splendor of a star.'), and brought word on behalf of Retired Bishop Edgar A. Love, who is in Seattle.

He advised that Bishop Love asked that it be recalled he and the Rev. Mr. King were lifelong friends, and the deceased was a dedicated Christian and good servant to his brethern.

The Rev. William L. Lyles, ('He took a fatherly interest in me, and taught me how to handle conference money .') and the Rev. B. F. Jackson, ('I met him in 1904 . . . he was a man humble man . . .') also spoke.

FELLOW ministers in the Washington Conference of the church served as honorary pallbearers. Along with relatives and friends they filled the beautiful church auditorium for the hour-long service.

Mrs. Annie Johnson Dyson organist was at the organ and accompanied the choir. Mrs. Edna Kess Mitchell sang Dvorak's 'Going Home.'

Active pallbearers were members of the Bee Hive Lodge No. 66 of Prince Hall Masons. They presided at burial services at Mt. Auburn. Officiating were Henry U. Ayers, grand lecturer; and A.C. Kane, master.

Relatives and friends occupied 25 cars for the trip to the cemetery, Arlington S. Phillips was in charge.

Surviving the Rev. Mr. King are, a son, Francis; three daughters, Misses Imogene and Daisy King; and Mrs. Hermione Weaver; a grandson, Kenneth Weaver;

A sister, Mrs. Emma Nutter, Princess Anne, Md., nephew, Douglass King, Arundel-on-the-Bay, and Howard Jones, Baltimore--S.M.M.

—Housing bill

D'Alesandro 3rd, president, with the unequivocal support of Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin and a host of organizations.

THE COUNCILMEN must vote on the measure, though, and here is where supporters are hoping they view correctly changed circumstances sufficient for its passage.

The two housing ordinances killed in a June went down by a 12-8 vote, with the then 20-man Council sitting.

At that time, the 3rd District seat of the late George W. Arthur was vacant. It has since been filled by Larry S. Best, whose vote finally could be at question.

—Hopkins students

either takes steps to assure that colored students will benefit from its educational facilities or it fails to do this. There is no neutral ground. Mere inaction, in the final result, is negative.

"If Hopkins does not wish to be left behind and it truly wishes to instill in its students an appreciation of the moral framework of our society, positive action to end all forms of discrimination must be taken immediately!"

A study conducted by the students shows Hopkins supporting segregated housing in that it does not insist that landlords of apartments and rooms in the university's list welcome all students.

Specifically, the students want Hopkins to take a public stand on open occupancy so that more colored students will feel free to enroll.

Students also recommend that Hopkins begin recruiting colored students to enroll since the general impression is that non-white students are not welcome. Their findings also show, they say, that the university needs to reform its scholarship policies to make it possible for needy. colored students to enroll.

They also say the employment structure on the campus reflects the old Southern tradition of giving menial jobs for whites.

If Hopkins desires to practice Equal Opportunity Employment, we recommend a concerted effort be made Employment, we recommend a concerted effort be made to find colored persons to work in administration, library and managerial offices," the students state.

They claim the percent of colored students is "very low compared to other leading Eastern colleges, with only eight colored students out of 1,668 undergraduates and 14 colored students out of 1,246 students in philosophy and engineering on the graduate level. They point out, "There are no colored freshmen at Hopkins this year."

—Piano tuner

temporarily hired then held over for the position regardless of whether someone better qualified should also take the test.

Commissioner Murphy added, "when the list for tuners is compiled, as with any list, we fill the vacancies from that list."

HOWEVER, even with an eligibility list, Dr. Magill has explained, "according to Charter, a person to fill any Civil Service vacancy only has to place among the five who score highest on the test."

Applications are being taken also "to establish an employment list" for piano tuners for the first time.

The other applicants go after the job not knowing that someone already has been tapped and all that person has to do is place in the top five to get it.

WHEN THE Civil Service Act was passed in 1883, it was conceived as a means for eliminating the subjectivity of employing friends or supporters. It was to end the "spoils system."

It was to make as objective as possible the hiring of workers on City rolls to which all citizens contribute tax monies.

Perhaps the piano - tuner position is a minor one.

Perhaps there will be few applications for the position.

However, the principle governing the current vacancy, which says in effect "no others need apply," easily could be abused.

Should temporary employment prior to an exam be tantamount to tenure when others have not been able to compete equally?

Should public notice be given without explanation, for others to apply for a job already promised to someone else?

Is public faith in the Civil Service System hurt by this practice?

—Tax hike

Room 216 Municipal Building to lodge a protest.

HOMEOWNERS were notified this week of the reassessment of their property. Mr. Curtis said, and learned that they had been hit hard by the tax bite, in violation of a "gentleman's agreement" that no tax increase would follow enforced improvements.

A comparative analysis of tax increases elsewhere in West Baltimore was particularly vexing to Harlem Park residents, said Mr. Curtis.

He reports that of 5,000 homes re-assessed in West Baltimore, 2,000 are in the renewal area.

While an estimated 315 homeowners outside the area were slapped with a tax hike, 594 of the 3,000 Harlem Park dwellers were hit.

When they descend on the assessor's office at 3 p.m. Monday, residents will be represented by City Council President Thomas D'Alesandro and Fifth District Councilman William D. Schaefer, according to Mr. Curtis.

In explaining the protest, Mr. Curtis told the AFRO:

"We feel that we are being penalized for raising the 'esthetic value' of our homes, Put in simpler terms, "he added, "we are being punished for fixing up our houses."

Ironically, it was learned, many residents hit with the new tax bite are eligible for a tax decrease due to age, limited income, and the pre-reasessed value of their homes.

More ironic still, many of the homeowners feel that the resalable value of their properties does not exceed $4,000.

The purpose of the protest, Mr. Curtis said, is to demand a public hearing on the increase and ask the city to hold the hikes in abeyance until they have been allowed to air their grievances.

Efforts to reach the assessor's office to determine reasons for the increase and officials of the Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Agency for comment, were still in process at prestime.

His favorable view could raise the already known pro 9-vote to 9.

Further possible changes are seen in the previous 12-vote cast earlier against the two similar ordinances.

FOR EXAMPLE, Councilman James J. Duffy, who with his other two 1st District colleagues voted against the ordinances, is expected to run for sheriff of city.

This means, Mr. Duffy must count on much of Baltimore's 32.6 percent colored voter registration to win.

At question is whether Mr. Duffy will risk the ire of colored voters and certain loss of the sheriff's post, by again opposing the open occupancy ordinance at this time.

His change of heart for practical reasons could bring a possible favorable 10-vote.

For passage of the 21-man Council, 11 votes are needed.

IN THE same category is Councilman Clement J. Prucha, who wants to run for senator of his 2nd District.

That district has almost a 60 percent composition of colored voters.

Mr. Prucha could be seen as a possible favorable vote, unless he decides not to run for senator. That would run the favorable ante to 11.

Then, there is the question of whether another former opposer, Councilman John A. Pica (3rd D.) will make a bid again for congressman.

He lost before because of the colored vote, and he can't win this time without it. His entry could bring a favorable vote, if he expects a chance of winning.

ALSO, THERE is the case of Councilman Reuben Caplan, another former opposer in the 5th District.

Faced now with a highly integrated district and almost all of his Jewish organizations supporting open housing legislation, Mr. Caplan could be a question in the voting.

Certainly, most observers are saying, he can neither be elected in his district again, with a vote against this new ordinance.

Such are some of the changed circumstances supporters of this latest housing ordinance are pegging pushing it in the favorable column. There are others.

The ordinance does not face a vote Monday. It will be sent to a committee for a report to the floor, either to the Housing committee and Councilman William D. Schaefer (8th D.) is chairman of the Judiciary.

LISTENING INTENTLY to proposals and ideas which could well affect the direction of current demonstrations in Alabama are Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and his aide, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, at the White House Conference on Civil Rights. (Photo by Bunns) adopted a recommendation by Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin that it endorse the equalization principles of the Cooper-Hughes Report for financial aid to the city.

This report would distribute state revenues to the city and counties on the basis of a formula, relating need to ability to pay.

The mayor is urging all citizens to attend 10 a.m. hearings Monday and Tuesday on the report, conducted by the Legislative Commission on State and Local Taxation and Financial Relations in the State Office Bldg.

In still other business, the Board was advised that Martin Klein, of New York City, the new Civic Center director, is expected to begin work Dec. 6.

The request was granted that Douglas S. Tawney, outgoing director, remain on salary to work with Mr. Martin for a month's period of orientation.

The Board noted and took under advisement a letter from Sen. Verda F. Welcome, requesting a school crossing guard be provided at Warwick and Windsor Aves.
