Prizewinner's paper kept afloat by Miss donations

LEXINGTON, Miss. (UPI)—Mrs. Hazel Brannon Smith, whose moderate racial views brought her the Pulitzer Prize and reduced profits of her weekly newspaper, Monday was presented $2,882.20 raised by citizens to keep her paper going.

The gift was presented at ceremonies at Saints Junior College by canvassers who went through this rural area collecting dollars and quarters to help the crusading editor.

"Can you imagine this county without the Lexington Advertiser and Hazel Brannon Smith?" asked Saints president Dr. Arenia C. Mallory. "Your eyes would be put out."

Mrs. Smith, who has kept up a running battle with the Council and often with county officials over ill treatment, won the Pulitzer Prize in 1964.

* * *

THE PRIZE was awarded for "steadfast adherence to her editorial duties in the face of great pressure and opposition."

Her editorial crusading has resulted in a boycott by all local advertisers in her paper here and in the three other weeklies she owns in Mississippi.

Dr. Mallory told the crowd of Mrs. Smith's first battle in an editorial written 11 years ago criticizing the local sheriff for shooting a boy in the leg.

"This story reduced her from a woman of almost wealth to a woman who has had to struggle like the rest of us," Dr. Mallory said.

* * *

SHE SAID Mrs. Smith "is not for me, nor for you; she is for right."

"My heart is in Holmes County," said Mrs. Smith in accepting the gift. "I love Mississippi, not like (former Gov.) Ross Barnett loves it, because he lives in the past. I love it for its future. I think we can work out our destiny and I think we will."

Lowery will be New York City's first colored Fire Commissioner. (UPI Telephoto)

Lowery is 3rd tan N.Y. commissioner

NEW YORK, (UPI)—Mayor - elect John V. Lindsay today named Robert O. Lowery, as the city's next Fire Commissioner.

Lowery will become New York's first colored Fire Commissioner. The announcement made at a news conference, was Lindsay's first commission appointment.

Alonzo Yerby, the present city Hospitals Commissioner, is colored. James R. Dumpson, former Commission of Welfare, was the first colored person to attain the status of commissioner.

Currently a deputy fire commissioner, Lowery, 49, will move into the $25,000 a year post as successor to current commissioner Martin Scott.

Lowery joined the department in 1941 and was assinged to the fire marshal's office in 1946. He was named a deputy fire commissioner three year ago after amassing a record of commendations for investigative work including the capture of several arsonists.

BORN IN Buffalo, N.Y., Lowery attended New York City public schools and City College. He also studied at New York University's graduate school of Public Administration and the National Institute on Police and Community Relations at Michigan State University.

He is married and has two daughters.

Lindsay already has named his veteran campaign manager, Robert Price, and defeated running mate for city council President, Timothy W. Costello, to $37,500 posts as Deputy Mayors.

But the mayor elect also has said he expects his top administration members to take pay cuts in their new posts. Other major commission appointments were expected next week.

Mixed pair appeal ban

OKLAHOMA CITY, (UPI) —The Oklahoma Supreme Court Tuesday upheld a state law prohibiting racially mixed marriages.

The court denied a writ of mandamus which would have ordered the Candian County court clerk to issue a marriage license to Jesse Marquez, a white man, and Frances A. Jones, a colored woman.

The court cited past decisions in ruling that the Oklahoma miscegenation law is constitutional.

* * *

"SO FAR AS we have been able to determine," the state court said, "the Supreme Court of the United States has never held that miscegenation statutes are violative of the 14th Amendment.

"At the present time there are approximately 19 states which have miscegenation statutes. The great weight of authority from both federal and state courts is that they are constitutional."

Marquez and Miss Jones told the court they had been living together and were parents. They contended that the state's refusal to let them marry violated their religious freedom, as well as their right to equal protection of law under the 14th amendment.

MISS JONES, 23, is a Baptist. Marquez, 20, is a Catholic.

Jack Trezise, attorney for Marquez and Miss Jones said the state decision would be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, perhaps as a companion case with a similar appeal from Virginia.

Marquez and Miss Jones have three children. The youngest was born after the couple took their case to court.
