To hold exams for summer jobs in Federal Government

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — A nationwide competitive examination for temporary summer employment in the Federal Government as an office or science assistant will be given early next year, the Civil Service Commission announced Tuesday.

Applicants seeking positions in these fields will be given the required 2 - hour written test in cities to be announced in late January or early February.

The appointments will be in grades GS-1 through 4 (at annual salaries of $3,507 to $4,641) in such occupations as clerk, stenographer, typist, office machine operator, student assistant engineering aide, physical science aide, biological aide and mathematics aide.

Scheduled to be given only once, the test is designed to measure clerical skills, vocabulary, reading comprehension, abstract reasoning, and table and chart interpretation. Sample questions will be provided in advance, the CSC said.

• • •

ALL CITIZEN will be given equal opportunity to compete in the countrywide examination. Those who pass the test will be permitted to file applications with as many as six federal agencies or installations — there in the Washington area and three outside of Washington.

The names of applicants who pass the test and send notices of eligibility to federal agencies with applications for employment will be ranked on agency rosters according to their test scores. Consideration will be given first to those in the highest category.

In the Metropolitan Washington area, there will be a further breakdown of those who pass the test. In each test score group, the names of those living outside the District of Columbia, Virginia and Maryland will be given first consideration for available jobs.

This, the CSC explained, is to give highly qualified people from all over the nation the experience of working for a headquarters agency in Washington.

THE EXAMINATION for office and science assistant positions will not be used to fill blue collar jobs, jobs in post offices, specialized positions above the GS 4 level, or certain positions in the National Park and Forest Services.

SCARING COMMUNIST AGITATORS

Airplane bomber held in Miami

MIAMI (UPI) —A 30 - year - old Air Force veteran was charged with fire-bombing colored and Jewish residential areas from a small airplane to "scare the pants off" left wing agitators.

"I didn't plan to hurt any one or hit any houses," Lon David Shaw told investigators for the Dade County sheriff's office after his arrest.

There were no injuries in the fire bombings but officers said damage was extensive.

"They said the "Molotov cocktail" type devices were tossed from a small single-engine plane flown at low level by Shaw, a former Air Force enlisted man who said he learned flying after he left the service in 1957. All the bombings were at night.

Two of the bombings were in colored areas and three in white areas, including one predominantly Jewish neighborhood. At least one of the bombs landed in a backyard and splattered the outside of a house and a child's swing set to flames.

• • •

"THE BASIC reason was to scare the Communists who were instigating riots planned for several occasions in this area," the handcuffed Shaw told UPI.

"Throwing these devices that go off with a loud bang and a flash would literally scare the pants off them and let them know somebody was doing something about it," he said.

Lt. Fred Mowry of the arson squad and Sgt. Dave Heilman of Sheriff T. A. Buchanan's criminal intelligence unit said Shaw apparently did not have any specific houses in mind but was aiming at neighborhoods where he believed "agitators" were at work planning riots and demonstrations.

He told the officers he believed the colored residents were being "used" by the Communists.

• • •

OFFICERS said they caught up with Shaw after a Nov. 16 bombing in the thickly - settled North Bay Village residential area. By checking plane rental agencies, officers said, they were able to pinpoint Shaw for the first time as the man who had rented planes on all the nights of the bombings.

Investigators said they had hoped to apprehend Shaw in the act of boarding a plane with a fire bomb, but decided to arrest him after keeping him under surveillance for a few days because of the chance he might slip away on another flight.

Shaw, the officers said, is single and doesn't drink or smoke. He was dressed in slacks and a parka with a hood over his head when he was arrested at his Miami Springs home.

Investigators said they found no indication that Shaw was a member of any political groups. They had no comment when asked if there might be other arrests in the bombings.

Y-TEENS VIE — Among the busy young ladies in the city these days are those misses who are working to win the title of "Miss Teenage YWCA." Their votes sell for 10 cents each and the winner will receive a $25 Savings Bond and a trophy. Proceeds will go to send delegates to the Y - Teen conferences next summer. Among those competing are, left to right: (front) Misses Doris Johnson, Deirdre Hays, Shelley Leonard, Rosemary Richmond and Maurice Tyler. (rear) Misses Francine Lloyd, Debra Jones, Ernestine Christmas, Diane Pridgen, Charlene Frazier, Jennifer Mason, Jennifer Shaw, Irish Shaw and Jean McCain.

Holdup try produces confusion

Four thugs, armed with a shotgun, a .22 cal. pistol, a lead pipe and a rubber hose, held up a Cross St. tavern early Tuesday morning, and in the resulting confusion one customer was wounded by a shotgun blast and another cut himself with a bottle he was using to chase the crooks.

Object of the attempt was Scheff's Tavern in the 1200 block W. Cross St.

Police said three customers and a barmaid in the bar at 1:20 a.m. could identify the thieves only as being in their early 20's and wearing silk stockings over their faces.

Customers told Southwestern District police that the four men entered the tavern and one of them discharged the 410 guage shotgun on the floor.

• • •

THE CUSTOMERS were ordered away from the bar and were instructed to stand against the shuffleboard game as two of the stocking-shrouded holdup men started searching the cash register and cash box.

One of the customers began to run towards the back door at this point, police said. He was hit in the arm and both hands with a blast from the shotgun and the crooks fled.

A witness outside the bar observed that they jumped into a tan sedan, possibly with temporary tags, and escaped on Carroll St., striking several fences with the right side of the car along the way.

Another customer gave chase with a bottle in his hand. He fell to the pavement, cutting his right hand with the bottle, police said.

Karl Smith, 60, 900 block Washington Blvd., was treated at University Hospital for shotgun wounds. Bruce Raeke, 26, 1100 block Carroll St., was treated at the same hospital for lacerations of hand. Both were released.

Owner of the tavern, Harold Scheff, was not able to determine the exact amount of money missing.

$50 heist nets man 8 years

Mansyr L. Epps, a 37-year - old huckster who resided in the 1600 block of N. Broadway, was given a 8-year prison term Tuesday for taking $50 from Miss Nellie Foney, a 76-year-old crippled woman. Miss Ton ey lives in the 2500 block E. Chase St.

In handing down the sentence, Judge Anselm Sodaro, sitting in Criminal Court, refused to accept the defense contention that if any crime was committed, it was the crime of larceny and not robbery.

The maximum term for larceny, under the facts presented, would have been 18-months.

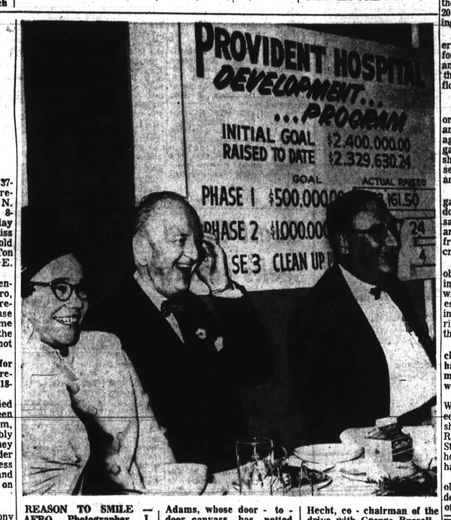

Miss Foney, who testified from a bed which had been wheeled into the court-room, said that Epps had forcibly taken the $50 from a money bag which she keeps under her blouse. In the process she had lost an earring and had suffered a scratch on her neck.

• • •

THOUGH HER testimony was somewhat vague, she stuck to her the point that the money had been taken from he person and thus denied Epps' version.

The huckster contended that he had taken the money from the woman's purse after selling her some vegetables and running an errand for her as he did from time to time.

According to court testimony, Miss Foney, who has lost a leg, was in her wheel chair when the robbery occurred.

Succumbs to burns

A 59-year-old man died Tuesday night at Johns Hopkins Hospital after he was the victim of a fire which flashed through his apartment in the 1600 block of E. Monument St. Saturday.

Police identified the victim as George Knight. He was admitted to Johns Hopkins after the fire and treated for burns of both hands and arms and a laceration of the face.

Firemen said the origin of the blaze was unknown, but that it almost completely destroyed the interior of the first floor of the three-story multiple dwelling.

Another resident of the apartment house, Mrs. Elizabeth Porter, 60, was treated for smoke inhalation from the fire, which began a few minutes after midnight Saturday morning.

Both victims were taken to the hospital by ambulance from the pavement in front of the house.

'Bomb scare' at Southern seen as hoax

Southern High School at Warren and Battery Aves. evacuated its 2,000 - student enrollment and all faculty Tuesday with just five minutes before a 10 a.m. when a threatened bomb blast was reportedly set to go off.

Oscar L. Helm, Southern's principal, told the AFRO the bomb threat had originally come through the Southern Police Station with the fire department subsequently being notified.

As fire trucks rolled up and students filed out of the building, the search began. Every possible hiding place was checked and re-checked.

No bomb or incendiary apparatus of any kind was turned up.

The all-clear bells were sounded and Southern students returned to the routine of classes.

• • •

"I'M AT a loss even to search for anybody," Mr. Helm said. "The call could have been made by a crank, anybody."

Southern High School had a previous bomb threat but it was so long ago that no one could remember the exact date.

Mr. Helm reported that the evacuation this time, as before, was without difficulty of any kind.

Motion to dismiss 11 indictments

A motion to dismiss indictments against 11 CORE members who participated in a recent sit-in demonstration at an apartment house in the 500 block West University Parkway was filed in the Baltimore Criminal Court Wednesday by CORE attorney Fred E. Weisgal.

According to the motion, a number of colored persons went to the offices of University Associates, Inc., 500 W. University Pkwy., and wanted to look over the apartments, with the intent, if satisfactory, to rent a place in the building.

They were told that the renting policy was restricted to whites only. Hearing this, they decided to exercise their constitutional rights and began to protest the renting policy.

All 11 were arrested and charged with trespassing on private property.

The motion filed Wednesday, however, contends that the protestors were within their rights because the building in question had received sufficient governmental aid and protection to prohibit its owners from having a discriminatory renting policy.

Fellowship House cites poverty chief

Fellowship House is calling November its "Birthday Month" because it marked the fifth anniversary of its move from Preston St. to active headquarters at 3200 N. Hilton St.

Special birthday dinners were held the past two Saturdays to raise funds and involve members and friends in an anniversary spirit.

A highlight of Saturday's dinner was the presentation of Fellowship's Leadership Award to Parren J. Mitchell, executive director of the Community Action Agency.

Sidney Hollander, Reuben P. Jones and Mrs. Mary Taylor are other award recipients.

After the dinner, members and friends enjoyed a social hour. The small Fund Raising Projects Committee, chaired by Mrs. Mary Carter Smith, planned both affairs. Miss Ruth Fegley is executive director of Fellowship House.

Nurse aide try novel program

When the shortage of nursing aides for Bon Secours Hospital became serious, a free schooling course was offered to those applicants over 35 years who were interested.

Almost immediately two classes were filled and the program is now under way. There is no obligation on the trainees to work at the hospital although employment will be offered to each successfully completing the course.

Mrs. King sees war-rights link

Freedom and peace, Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr. said at Coppin State College Thursday, are for her, as they are for her husband, inter-linked subjects.

Mrs. King, attractive wife of the nation's foremost civil rights leader, gave a concert at the college that same evening and is addressing the student body this morning (Friday.)

During a brief session with newsmen Thursday, she refused to be her husband's spokesman. She would answer no questions about his future plans.

With her was her host, Dr. L. D. Reddick, one of her husband's biographers, and Mrs. Olive J. Williams, her first music teacher. Mrs. Williams accompanied Mrs. King during her concert.

WHEN THE issue of Vietnam was raised, Mrs. King said she thought it was possible to protect the administration's policy without being disloyal to the troops fighting there.

Ala. jury finds white man guilty

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI) — An all - white jury Thursday convicted Hubert Damon Strange of second degree murder in the nightrider killing of Willie Brewster and sentenced him to 10 years in prison.

It was the first time in modern history a southern jury has convicted a white man of a racial killing.

The all - male jury deliberated more than 10 hours before returning the verdict at 4:15 p.m. (EST.) It got the case Wednesday afternoon.

Legal aid for poor 'absolute necessity'

Conflicting repercussions have arisen in the aftermath of the City Council's killing Tuesday evening of the Community Action Agency's proposed free legal aid service to the poor in its project areas.

The proposal was killed by a 16-6 vote of councilmen present in the 21-man body.

Strong opposition came in a lengthy, stormy hearing from a number of lawyers, though a committee of the Baltimore Bar Association had supported the plan.

Chief concern seemed to be that such a service by CAA in its anti-poverty campaign would cut seriously the practice of attorneys who handle such clients.

Muslims tell how to control delinquency

"Youth must be given a true knowledge of himself, his personal worth, of his religion and of his God. Youth must be taught that all that is black is not bad and all that is white is not good."

Minister Isaiah Karriem, head of Muhammad's Mosque No. Six, 514 Wilson St., was talking to the AFRO about the lack of juvenile delinquency among followers of Elijah Muhammad.

"Here, we teach our youth this. We first equip them with a knowledge of themselves," Mr. Karriem went on.

"There is no such thing as delinquency among children of Muhammad's followers."

New minimum wage coverage advances

An amending ordinance to increase employee coverage by the city's minimum wage law was approved Wednesday by the Board of Estimates and sent up for City Council action.

The Ordinance 1399, placed before the Council Nov. 22 at request of Joseph A. Bush, director, Minimum Wage Commission, would revise the law in this respect:

1. Make the law applicable to establishments with seven or more employees, rather than coverage now of those with 11 or more.

2. Extend coverage to employees of nursing houses, hospitals, ambulances, motion and legitimate theatres.

3. Make it a misdemeanor, punishable by a

After an exhaustive half-year study of the situation at Dunbar High School, a special committee of the Public School Teachers Association yesterday submitted its 54-page report to the School Board and called for, among other things, the end of the Basic curriculum—one of CORE's major demands last spring.

Arising out of CORE's pickets, protests and sit-ins at the Board of Education Building for a new Dunbar and for upgrading of the facilities, the committee's investigation resulted in 15 recommendations relating to Dunbar specifically and to the school system in general.

Replying to CORE's demand that the word Basic be deleted from diplomas and the basic curriculum be dropped in all city schools, the 20-member committee urged that the present proliferation of curricula in the public

Mrs. Santa

"Now is the time for all good men — women and children, too — to come to the aid of the poor and needy."

When Mrs. Santa issued this plea this week she was being neither cute, poetic, or dramatic.

It aptly describes her plight each year this time when the requests for food baskets far exceeds the supply.

For the eighth consecutive year, Mrs. Santa, through Charities, Inc., has been responsible for hundreds of needy families getting decent meals at Christmas — meals they would not have had otherwise.

Additionally, she has treated nearly 2,000 children to a Christmas Theatre Party where underprivileged children enjoy a film especially designed for kids, and a live show by young stars, revolving around the holiday theme.

Share $1,250 in big AFRO SS cash game

This is the time of the year when everyone needs extra cash and you can win it in the AFRO's new Social Security Game, a $1,250 give - away.

All you have to do is check entry rules inside today's paper and get your Social Security number to the AFRO. There are no puzzles to fill, no letters to write.

The AFRO will give cash prizes from $10 to $100 each week to individual players out of the $250 weekly pot.

Six winning numbers will be published on Tuesdays and another six on Fridays. The Tuesday numbers have a total value of $100 and the Friday numbers $150.

READERS MAY send in their Social Security number as many times as they like. The more times, the better your chances to win.

Also, winners can collect more than one because each number stays in the running until the contest ends.

The first numbers will appear on Tuesday, Dec. 14, so the earlier your Social Security number is sent in, the sooner it may be picked as a winner.

Send numbers to the AFRO-AMERICAN, 628 N. Eutaw St. 21201.

Don't pass up this simple way to win that big money for Christmas!

$50, tickets riding on games

Both the Baltimore Colts and the Washington Redskins have a rough row to hoe this weekend as the Colts take on the Chicago Bears in Memorial Stadium and the 'Skins invade Cleveland to clash with the Browns.

Frankly, we don't think the odds either way on either game mean too much and your guess is as good as anyone else's as to how the game will go—and there's $50 waiting for you if you hit it right, plus two hard-to-get tickets to the next home game.

Decide what you think the score will be and mail it to the AFRO, 628 N. Eutaw St. The postmark must be no later than midnight Saturday. Use the Fill-in blank inside.

BEREAVED MOTHER, Mrs. Magdeline Dale, accompanied by Earl Smallwood entered funeral home Thursday for rites of her slain daughter, Sharon Dale.

It's dangerous for girls to be out alone at night

By MARY RICHARDSON

Mrs. Magdeline Dale, 33, mother of 14 - year - old Sharon Dale, who was slain last Friday night, told the AFRO "the same thing that happened to my child could happen to some other child."

Captain Wade Poole of the Central District station echoed Mrs. Dale when he told the AFRO, "the child's mother couldn't have done anymore. The little girl was 14 and certainly old enough to go to a store three doors away from her home."

The Rev. Marion Bascom, pastor of Douglas Memorial Community Church spoke in favor of "proper chaperonage" at all times for children.

He felt that although this case might have been different, such tragedies in the past have too often stemmed "from the laxness in homes. I'm for old-fashioned discipline."

With emotion in his voice, the Rev. Bascom added, "This case breaks my heart. I have a 14-year-old daughter myself."

Cherry Hill list full of mistakes

By ROGER J. NISSLY

Some of the best arguments against the establishment of a liquor outlet in Cherry Hill are being given by residents whose names appear on the petition "in favor" of the package goods store.

The explanation of this weird turn of events is the fact that many of these people say they did not sign the petition which supposedly speaks for them, or signed it only through a misunderstanding.

Last week, the AFRO turned up the names of ghosts, teenagers and people who were against the store (along with a non - existent address) among the "450 to 650" names on the favorable petition, which Judge James K. Cullen used partly as a basis for his decision to grant the first liquor license in the Cherry Hill Shopping Center.

In granting the license, Judge Cullen overturned the Liquor Board's previous decision as being "arbitrary" and overlooked an "unfavorable" petition signed by 3,500 residents.

• • •

ON CONTINUING inspection, what support was exhibited for a liquor store in Cherry Hill—the petition with "450 to 650" names — appears to have been greatly exaggerated and full of faults.

More and more persons listed as favoring the liquor store say they don't understand how their names got on such a petition.

Take the case of Mrs. Francita Mills, 600 block Hillview Rd.

"I live right behind the shopping center," Mrs. Mills declared, "and I have six children, so I am definitely against the liquor store. We have enough trouble right now with teenagers throwing beer cans out behind my house. The store would just make it worse."

Mrs. Mills' name appears on the petition "in favor" of the package goods store.

How it got there is a mystery to her, and she is incensed at the idea that some-

"I can't forgive myself, I want her back," the mother of the slain Sharon Dale sobbed over and over during the 14 - year - old student's funeral Thursday on Caroline St.

More than 100 persons filed past the small white coffin while still another 100 stood silently on the street corners outside the Elliott Funeral Home.

Many of Sharon's classmates were turned away from the tearful service because there were too many people standing inside and filling the stair case to the second floor.

The Rev. Albert Hammond of St. James Methodist Church performed the service with the Rev. Marcus Wood of the Providence Baptist Church speaking about the Dale family's devotion to church.

When Miss Flossie Hicks concluded a solo, "The Only Hope We Have is Jesus," all the restraint of the Dale family was gone. Sharon's sisters and brothers cried openly and Mrs. Dale had to be comforted by a neighbor.

Teenager escapes abduction try

A 14-year-old East Baltimore girl told Eastern District police Thursday that two unidentified men attempted to abduct her 9 a.m. at Caroline and Fayette Sts. while she was en route to school at Lombard and Caroline Sts.

She said the men whom she estimated to be about 40 years old—grabbed her and attempted to pull her into a blue car with white top.

When she began screaming, the complainant told investigators, the driver sped off dragging her a half block before her would-be captor released her arm.

The teenager said she sustained scratches and bruises as a result of falling to the pavement.

The Lombard junior high student said she had never seen her would-be assailants and could think of no reason why they would want to abduct her.

She reported the incident to school officials who in turn called in her parents and police, who were searching for the suspect at press time.
