Local students off to confab on atom

Nine high school students and three teachers from the Baltimore area left Friendship Airport Wednesday for Chicago, where they will attend the 1965 National Youth Conference on the Atom.

Each year over 600 of the nation's brightest high school students and science teachers gather in Chicago to learn of the peaceful uses of the atom.

The Conference is held by the investor - owned electric utility industry, and Baltimore Gas and Electric is the local sponsor.

Students attending from this area are: Jerome Pittman, Frederick Douglas High School; Stanley C. Meros, Brooklyn Park High School; Nancy E. Scott, Parkville Senior High School; B. Diane Chepko, Westminster High School; Keith R. Adams, Havre de

Gerald E. Jones, Howard County Senior High School; Herbert A. Huston, DuVal Senior High School; Louis E. Jacksits, Archibishop Curley High School; and Eric A. Fischer, McDonogh School.

Teachers are Mrs. Madeline V. Forrest, Frederick Douglas High; Robert E. Owen, Parkville Senior High School, and Donald A. Lewis, Archbishop Curey High School.

While in Chicago, delegates will hear and talk with some of America's leadiing scientist. Also, they will visit the Museum of Science and Industry and the Argonne National Laboratory.

INDIAN TRAINEES

WASHINGTON (NNPS) — The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors has renewed a $47,150 contract with the Bureau of Indian Affairs to provide on-the-job training for 155 Indian women. They will work toward certificates as nurses' aides and surgical nursing technicians.

BARRY RAPS CUTS

WASHINGTON — Barry Goldwater charges that McNamara's cost - saving cutbacks would leave free world defenseless by 1970.

—Johnson guilty

100 - year - old state requirement that jurors had to believe in a Supreme Being before qualifying for duty in State courts.

SMITH, at present serving an 18 - year sentence for stabbing his sweetheart to death August 22, 1964, was overheard by a court clerk to say that he was willing to give testimony which would exhonorate Johnson.

When the defense called Smith to the stand, Smith took the 5th Amendment and refused to talk. The clerk, William Sanford, was then asked to take the stand by the defense.

He related Smith's promise, but this did not sway the Judge who felt that the testimony which implicated Johnson in the crime, including Johnson's confession, left no reasonable doubt in the jurist's mind.

Smith, who was found sane both at the time of the stabbing of his sweetheart and at his trial for the crime, will raise the plea of insanity when the arson and murder cases come up next month.

He is charged with setting the fire while out on $5000 bail pending the trial for murdering Helen Marie Wilson, his 24 - year - old sweetheart.

That case was later tried by Judge Sklar who, pointing to the fact that she had been stabbed 17 times, described the crime as "vicious."

• • •

BEFORE finding Johnson guilty, Judge Sklar commended the work of the prosecution and the defense in the three-day trial. Then, after briefly reviewing the pertinent evidence, the Judge addressed himself to the defendant.

"Why the defendant Johnson did this is rather vague, except that what is not vague is that he did aid Kennard Smith in his nefarious scheme that night," Judge Sklar concluded.

Admitting that the crime of "snuffing out seven young lives repels one," the decision, the Judge declared, had nothing to do with emotion.

Malcolm R. Kitt and Richard O. Motsay, assistant State's attorneys, prosecuted the case. Charles P. Howard Jr., defended Johnson.

During the Johnson case, Mrs. Smith, who was at a neighbor's house the night the fire was set, broke down on the stand while testifying. She could not keep from sobbing as she related the incidents which led up to the deaths of seven of her 11 children.

• • •

HER 16 - year - old son, Antonio, who also testified, told the court that he had been awakened by the crash of glass early on the morning of Dec. 1 and that when he investigated found his father setting the house on fire.

He said that his father had told him to go back inside as the flames engulfed the dwelling in the 2600 block of Oliver St.

According to court testimony, the fire had been set both in front and rear of the building, making an escape near impossible.

South Baltimore Notes

By WALTER W. E. HILL Sr.

The past holiday gave notice to Mr. and Mrs. Roland Christian and family as they were the guests of Mrs. Audrey Owens.

Mrs. Rosabelle Walker and family spent their week in Mullins, S.C. where they visit her parents, then to Sumpton for a short visit with her brother.

Ebenezer AME Church closes their Village Camp this Sunday with prayer bands from all sections of the city. The services will be held at 3 and 8 p.m. The Perless Glee Club will be sponsored in recital by the Willing Workers on Sunday, Dec. 19 at 4 p.m. Mrs. Lillie Lemmon is president.

Remember the sick and shut-ins: Mrs. Alice Moore, Mrs. Ella McKnight, Clinton Shorts, Mrs. Thelma Bailey, Arthur Gould, Howard Patterson and Mrs. Annie Monroe.

Mr. Warren Brown, who was chairman of the Magnanimous Choir Festival, had a most successful program both financially and in attendance. The amount raised was $75.

Wilson St. stack to be demolished

It's finally settled — they are going to tear down that towering, brick smokestack on Wilson St.

Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin announced Wednesday his requested study by the Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Agency of neighborhood sentiment favored its demolition.

The stack stands on a proposed playground which will be adjacent to a new school under construction in this sector of BURHA's Madison-Park South.

Besides, the report of Richard L. Steiner, BURHA director, advised the mayor an amendment to the long - drawn plan for the project would be required to preserve the stack, and he doubted that such would be approved by the City Council.

• • •

THE REPORT to the mayor also termed the stack a safety hazard to the neighborhood, its children and an eyesore not worthy of maintaining.

Mr. Steiner's report stated that if anybody wanted it preserved, they could not be found in its vicinity.

Some months ago, controversy over the stack, built in 1872 as a ventilating shaft for the Pennsylvania Railroad's tunnel, was raised by some residents of Bolton Hill nearly a mile away who wanted it preserved as something of historical value.

The mayor's Commission on Historical and Architectural Preservation was swayed to siding with the Bolton Hill group who saw in it a style of the Italian Renaissance.

The district's Councilman Walter T. Dixon, however, has been waging a fight for its demolition for over two years.

All of this resulted in Mayor McKeldin getting into the controversy with his request for a recommending study by Burha.

Demolition of the stack will occur after the Board of Estimates has given approval to an option between the railroad and BURHA for acquisition of the tract on which it stands.
