New NYC program approved

The U.S. Department of Labor today amounced approval of the continuation of a Neighborhood Youth Corps out-of-school program at Baltimore to provide skill training, education and financial support for 400 disadvantaged high school dropouts in the city.

Regional Manpower Administrator J. Terrell Whitsitt said the department had approved a grant of $1,225,180 with the Baltimore City Community Action Agency, 11 East Mount Royal Ave., to continue the program for another year.

New entrants to the out-of-school program will receive allowances equivalent to 75 per cent of the Maryland Manpower Development and Training Act allowance for a youth without dependants which is currently $53 a week.

Youngsters who are heads of households will receive $53 per week in allowance plus $5 each dependant up to $30 a week.

The program is operated under the auspices of the Baltimore mayor and city council.

The dropouts, 16 to 17 years old, will receive work experience, skill training, counseling and education.

Dean protests practices at law school

Delegate Walter R. Dean, Jr. (D. 5th District) has sent letters to both Gov. Marvin Mandel and the University of Maryland Law School Dean William Cunningham protesting "discriminatory and arbitrary practices" against black law students.

Delegate Dean stated that he would like to see "justification for the high failure rate among black law students. He also stated that there was a "repulsive" failure rate among black law school graduates.

In a further comment, he stated that the black community needs "dedicated and sensitive attorneys" and "resents" the high-handed way in which blacks are forced out of the law school's program.

Commission has job openings

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has asked the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith to assist it in recruiting members of "the minority community" for some 75 new engineering jobs in the $15,000 to $25,000 class.

In a letter to the League, John E. Uhrlaub of the Commission's Personnel Division, said the jobs—for middle and upper level experienced personnel—carry with them "a commitment to achieve a higher level of minority representation in professional positions." The jobs available are for nuclear, structural, mechanical and environmental engineers with 3 to 5 or more years field experience.

The jobs are mostly in Bethesda, Maryland, but there are also some in Newark, New Jersey, Atlanta, Georgia, and Glenn Ellyn, Illinois. Those interested should apply to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, Division of Personnel, Washington D.C. 20545. The telephone number is 301 973-7417.

Eastside Demos back Russell

The Eastside Democratic Organiztion (EDO) of the Second District has announced the endorsement of George Russell for mayor and Clarence "Du" Burns, Robert Douglass, and Robert Fitzpatrick for City Council from the Second District.

The EDO worked together successfully in 1970 to elect Robert Dalton to the State Senate, John Douglass, Floyd Adams, Frank Heintz, Torrey Brown, Maclyn McCarty, and Wally Orlinsky to the House of Delegates and seven members to the Democratic State Central Committee from the Second District.

They are Percy Davis, Robert Douglass, Robert Fitzpatrick, Keith Garlid, Mrs. Hattie Harrison, Samuel Lloyd, Mrs. M. Kathleen O'Ferrall, and Joe Robinson.

Russell interprets Nixon 'freeze' order

Geirge L. Russell Jr., city solicitor, issued an interpretation of President Nixon's Executive Order freezing salaries, rents, and prices Tuesday, as it affects city employees.

It came in response to a request from Mayor Thomas J. D'Alesandro 3rd, and was also signed by Ambrose T. Hartman, deputy solicitor, and Mrs. Blanche G. Wahl, special assistant solicitor.

Here is the Russell interpretation.

You have asked for an interpretation of the Executive Order of the President, dated August, 1971, providing for the "Stabilization of Prices, Rents, Wages, Salaries," as it applies to the employees of the city of Baltimore.

The aforesaid Executive Order sets forth the need to stabilize the economy, reduce inflation and minimize unemployment by stabilizing prices, rents, wages, and salaries explicit in its prohibition of any wage or salary increase in any form "whether by retroactive increase or otherwise."

The Order also provides for a fine for willful violation thereof and authorizes the Department of Justice to bring an action for an injunction where anyone appears to have violated the order or any regulations issued pursuant thereto.

The wage freeze is set for aperiod of 90 days from August 14, 1971, to expire on November 12, 1971. The Executive Order does not spell out any exceptions to the general prohibition against wage increases.

It is our opinion that, until such time as the federal government issues regulations or guidelines which provide any exemptions or modifications, the city, in order to conform with the Order, may not put into effect any wage increase during this 90 day period, even though in the case of several of the unions with which the City negotiates, memoranda of understandings have been entered into which provide for wage increase effective September 1, 1971.

Further, in order to conform with the Order, the City may not make payment to its employees of the annual increments to which they normally would become entitled during the period between August 14 and November 12, 1971.

In addition, the newly established prevailing wage rates which were adopted by the Board of Estimates on August 11 to be effective as to contracts advertised on or after Aug 18, 1971, must also, as of this time, be frozen at their prior level.

We shall keep you informed of any modifications, or regulations which affect our city employees.

Courses set for servicemen
