Day-long festival Sunday

The Park Heights Conscious Festival will be held on Sunday, Aug. 25 on the parking lot of the Pimlico Race Track, Park Heights and Belvedere.

The festival will be a family affair, 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and will feature continuous live entertainment, rides, exhibits, community booths, food and other attractions for all.

Featured entertainers include Traidwynn, Grand Jury, Jimmy Wells Sextet, Sounds Extended and others.

Tickets are one dollar for adults and fifty-cents for children. They may be obtained at the Black Book Bookstore, modern Music House in Mondawmin, the Brothers Health Food Market, Jet Set Record Shop or by calling 654-7040.

Arts College new courses

Over 80 courses are now available to students registering for evening and Saturday classes at the Maryland Institute, College of Art. Mail registration will remain open through Aug. 26 while final registration will be held Sept. 3 for evening classes and Sept. 8 for Saturday classes.

Basic course offerings for the fall semester include art history; crafts, fine arts, drafting, photography, fashion, graphics and interior design.

All except children's courses carry transferable college credit for qualified individuals. The only degreen which can be completed exclusively by taking evening courses is the Master of Fine Arts in Art Education.

The nation's first large scale seawater conversion plant at Freeport, Tex., cost the federal government $1.2 million to build but was closed in 1973 because of high operating expenses.

Hopkins offers urban planning evening courses

The John Hopkins University has announced a new graduate level program with a major in urban planning. The program will begin this fall and will be offered through the University's Evening College and Summer Session.

The new 48-credit program, which will lead to the degree of Master of Science, was developed by the Evening College in cooperation with the University's Center for Metropolitan Planning and Research.

The Metro Center staff will provide a portion of the instruction for the program, supplemented by local expects working in various aspects of urban planning and development.

Towson offers teaching reading course in fall

Towson State College will offer Teaching Reading Secondary School (27.300) this fall at Milford Mill High School for teachers who need a course in reading instruction at the secondary level.

The course will meet every Wednesday from 7 to 9:10 p.m. from Sept. 11 to Dec. 18.

No trash collection on Labor Day

No municipal refuse collections will be made in Baltimore City on Monday, Labor Day, Sept. 2. The public is requested not to put refuse out for collection on Sept. 2. Materials will be picked up on the next regularly scheduled collection day.
