

R.S.V.P. With Marie

By Marie P. COOKE
Reflections Editor

A couple of months ago my good friend Louise Johnson dropped in to talk about a new group she had formed — a consciousness raising group for women. Well, this week I received a short text from Louise reporting that the organization not only has a name (Black Women's Consciousness Raising Association of Maryland), but also has members from various parts of the state, including Annapolis and other points in Anne Arundel Co.

"Who Am I?" "What Am I about?" are the questions members attempt to answer at each session. Mrs. Johnson says the organization is a co-learning group. "There are no big 'I's' and little 'You's,'" she says. Everyone participates.

This group is really making progress. On April 26, Delores A. (Dee) Williams will speak to BWCRAM at the Pratt Library on Garrison Blvd. The meeting is open to the public. Plan to be there at 1:30 p.m.

By now you should have the Alpha Wives Day at the Races on your calendar. It's tomorrow, Saturday, at the Pimlico Racecourse, of course. Activities will begin with lunch at 11 a.m. Not sure if there're any tickets left, but you can check by calling Susan King, 947-1699; Ruby Smith, 433-0874, or Josephine Kimbers 367-4688. Doris Reese, chairperson; Sarah Elias, president.

The 1411 Northgate Rd. home of Mrs. Sallie Yancey was the setting of a family gathering held recently. Mrs. Yancey's son, his wife, their children and grands visited from four states. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Alex Yancey, Oxford, N.C.; Mrs. Emma Harris, Oxford; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor, New York City; Mrs. Ola Watta, Philadelphia; Earl and Floyd Yancey, N.J.; Valentino Yancey, Oxford; Tina and David Taylor, New York City; Michele Yancey, and Drrick Watts of Philadelphia.

The Alpha Lodge of the Most Worshipful Hiram Grand Lodge brought in a list of those persons who have contributed to its Anna Mae Hunter Foundation campaign. AFRO readers are asked to support the project. Send contributions to: Anna Mae Hunter Home, c-o Alpha Lodge, P.O. Box 13264, Baltimore, Md., 21203 or call Gary Harris at 624-0969 or George Garrison, 727-7198.

Those persons who have contributed are: the Armstrong Family, $20; Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Jones, $10; James Rouse, $5; John Pearson, $5; Melody Aire Gospel Singers, $10;

Charles Bennett, $1; Mrs. Bessie Maxwell, $2; Addison and Johnson Beauty Salon, $5; Southland Gospel Singers, $5, and the Westport Residents Council, $20.

Little Lakisha Hancock was blessed at the Litle Ark Baptist Church recently. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Hancock. She is shown here with mother, Bertha, and twin brothers Sean and Damon.
