The Red Cross stands by waiting for you to call

By Clarence Hunter

It was long after dark the night of Oct. 8 when a four-alarm fire gutted a multiple dwelling in the 4000 block Bonner Rd.

Before noon the following day, the Red Cross was in touch with each of the five families to offer all assistance.

When disaster strikes anywhere in the city, the Red Cross is standing by to help citizens in need.

With cold weather coming and many families seeking to keep warm, the city may experience many fires if past statistics are true.

Although it is hoped Winter, 1975-76 will experience no fatalities nor disasters, it is best that each person become acquainted with the services the Red Cross offers.

Should you become a victim or know of someone in tragic circumstances, call Mrs. ROGERS SLOAN, director of the Social Services Division, the RED CROSS, 467-8905.

According to James O'Donnell, a spokesman for the Red Cross, information on a disaster comes to the agency's attention in a number of ways.

Friends or neighbors may call. Word is often received from other city agencies or the victim himself may call for assistance.

Mr. O'Donnell says once at times the agency will go out looking for the victim to give aid when the victim is only concerned with his loss and may not take the time to call.

If that is the case, the Red Cross seeks them out and renders any assistance necessary.

* * *

Mr. O'Donnell says one there is contact with the victim, workers are sent out to suggest to them the most satisfactory plan to put them back on their feet.

In the last fiscal year, the Red Cross has paid out close to $25,000 to some 700 victims of fires and $400,000 to over 200 flood victims.

All five families at 4001 Bonner Rd. have some type of fire insurance and they will receive donations from other persons around the community. However the Red Cross will provide them with any further help they need.

Remember: If you are a victim of a disaster or know of a victim call Mrs. Jo Rogers Sloan, director of the Social Service Division, at 467-8905.

Maryland's favorite quadruplets are sweet 16

By Portia E. Badham

For some persons, a birthday is just another day hardly noticed before it goes by.

But for members of the Graves family of Annapolis, every year one birthdate holds a very significant meaning.

The event marks the celebration of four of the Graves children, Kim Marie, Karen May, Katherine Mary, and, Kevin Mark, the quadruplets who were born 16 years ago on Oct. 10 at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

The Graves quads are the most famous of multible births in Maryland. The AFRO has followed them each year in photos and story since their birth in 1959.

"It's fun to share the same birthday," says Kim, tallest member of the quads.

To makr their 16th birthday, Mrs. Lorraine Graves mother of the four, gave the children a party last Friday at their Robinwood home and invited 20 friends.

"They really enjoyed the party," said Mrs. Graves, "since they all love to do the latest dances."

Although they do share the mutual birthdate and are all characteristic of the sign Libra (which means they are strong-natured, intelligent, and have great understanding and insight) their personalities and interests vary.

Kevin, the lone boy of the foursome is the business-minded person. He is enrolled in business preparatory course at Annapolis High where his sisters are also students.

For the past two years, Kevin has been active in the Boy Scouts and recently enjoyed a trip to the Scout Reservation in Pennsylvania.

He told the AFRO this about his future plans, "I would really like to go to college, but I haven't decided where I'll go. I'm interested in becoming a doctor."

Katherine, the quiet member of the group, says she hopes to go to college or enlist in the Army and study nursing.

* * *

Enrolled in the cosmetology course at Annapolis High, Karen plans to become an expert hair stylist in the Annapolis area.

The outgoing young lady loves basketball and wants to take swimming lessons

Kim, who likes to help other people, hopes to attend Howard University in Washington, D.C. and take nursing courses.

All four youngsters are 10th graders Annapolis Senior High, the only senior high school in the area of the state's capital.

Kevin has advanced as a top student, receiving "A's" in most of his subjects while his sisters, Kim Karen, and Katherine are right behind him with "B's" in their courses.

* * *

To most people, rearing a set of quads might seem like one big headache, but Mrs. Graves who also has two sets of twins, says "it's really not a problem at all."

Although, Mrs. Graves remains optimistic about rearing her family, she will face an extreme hardship, if all four children enter college at the same time.

* * *

With the rising cost of a college education, it can get expensive to just send one student through school.

Anyone interested in making contributions to the future of the Graves quadruplets may write Mrs. Lorraine Graves, 1421 Robinwood Rd., Annapolis, Md.

WHEN THEY WERE FIVE YEARS OLD, the Graves quads sported their new early winter togs for the AFRO's continuing series of photos taken each year since birth in 1959. They are from left, Karen, Kim, Kevin and Katherine.

A lady's tribute to Col. Watkins

Greatest policeman of all times

By Mrs. Inez A. Chapell

I'm going to tell the story of Col. Watkins. I've been a manicurist in the 1500 block of Pennsylvania for 25 years. I was there when he was a patrolman for Sgt. Butler.

Col. Watkins has come a long way to colonel. He is the greatest black policeman of our times.

I was on the Avenue when all the frame-up concerning him came up, when he was under this so-called investigation.

I know of the time when certain prisoners were given money to testify against the colonel.

He was the best policeman that the Avenue ever had. Whenever he was around, the junkies and the dope addicts would go into a shell or would disappear they had that much respect for him.

You go to City Jail or any prisons in the state of Maryland and the fellows will tell you he's the greatest policeman that ever was.

For the work that he's done for the city, he should be the Commissioner by now.

* * *

When an officer like him does such a great job, the white man has always had the tendency to tear his credibility down.

He is the one who cleaned up all the criminal things in the ghetto, he's cleaned up all the ghettos from Pennsylvania Ave. to Greenmount Ave.

* * *

He's done such a good job on the Avenue, they couldn't get anything on him so they transferred him to Greenmount Ave., to try to set him up again and that didn't work.

If there's ever been two black people who have tried to give black people their rights, it's George Russell Jr. and Col. Watkins. They are the two under-rated representatives of our race.

What more do these two people have to do, to even get the blacks to give them the credit they deserve?

* * *

If it wasn't for George Russell and Col. Watkins, stopping that search and seizure thing on the blacks, they would still be stopped and searched without a warrant.

I know of hundreds of people that could give you the same story about Col. Watkins.

I don't understand how so-called black leaders won't let the public know the great job that these men have done.

* * *

The greatest black people who have done more for their people in this town would be Col. Watkins, who has been the greatest black policeman of all times. George Russell who was put in the City Solicitor's office because he was helping his people learn their rights, and Willie Adams who has given more jobs than any other person you have ever known.

He's opened Super Pride and has employed hundreds of blacks and opened the Metro Plaza.

And if it wasn't for him, Mondawmin Shopping Center would be a graveyard.

* * *

The little people are the ones that do all the voting and fighting for their rights while the white collar people sit back and enjoy the gravy-train.

I had an opportunity to work in the Primary and it was unbelievable to see that we didn't turn out to support our candidates.

* * *

That's why the Mitchells survive because they deal with the little people and they know what the little people want.

And most political leaders, once they get in office, you never get to see them anymore.

They don't know what the people in the ghetto need because they're never around to investigate.

These three men that I have named know what the little people need and want. And have tried in all their power to help them.

* * *

Look at the job George Russell did for Provident Hospital and never got the credit he so richly deserved.

Willie Adams, what other black person has tried to keep business in the inner city for the employment of blacks, as he has done?

100,000 DOWNTOWN MARKET CUSTOMERS MAY WANT TO KNOW

What happened after Mrs. Bryant found that her shopping bag was missing from check-in Every Saturday, Mrs. Sylvia Bryant goes from her W. Mulberry St. home downtown to her favorite market. She tells the AFRO she has been going regularly over 15 years.

However, Saturday, Oct. 4 was a different day. When she went to get the three shopping bags of groceries she had bought and checked, one of them was missing.

She handed in her three check slips but the one in which she had eggs and meat was gone.

After a complaint to the manager failed to get anything except "we're not responsible," she called the police. The official report by Sgt. George Townson listed the value of the missing shopping bag as at least $25. Eggs and meat are high these days.

The store said the sign posted "check your bags at your own risk" meant just that. Therefore, Mrs. Bryant went to Legal Aid and then called the AFRO City Desk.

* * *

The happy ending came this week when Mrs. Bryant received a money order for $26 for the full amount. Mailed to her by the downtown market, the sum was for her missing meat and eggs.

The market was not Lexington Market but another one nearby.

Lexington Market authorities told the AFRO that persons checking items inside the famous shoppig center do so at their own risk, "but we try to make the customer happy if something goes wrong." Lexington Market says out of over 100,000 customers a month, very few complaints are received.

MRS. SYLVIA BRYANT followed through on her missing shopping bag filled with eggs and meat and received a happy response thanks to Legal Aid and the AFRO. She is shown in AFRO staff photo by Roman Hankewycz with her daughters, Regina, 14 and Darlene, 15.

9 plead guilty to dope violation

Federal Court Judge Herbert F. Murray accepted guilty pleas on Tuesday from nine of 17 persons charged with violation of federal narcotics law.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Andrew Radding told the AFRO, "three pounds of heroin valued at $100,000 street level was found in the cutting house on April 28, when the federal agents raided the house.

* * *

The cutting house was located at 4801 Laurel Ave., where Ms. Cheryl J. Henson, 29, lived.

The street ringleader of the conspiracy is James Ronald Moore, 21-year-old father of three children. Ms. Henson and Moore pleaded guilty.

Others who pleaded guilty were Howard Stanback, 25, also known as "Joe John" and employed as a longshoreman. Stanback attended Morgan State University three years.

* * *

Bernard Bynum, 28, of the 700 block Woodington Rd., is a student at community College of Baltimore. Ms. Rose Alice McGill, 21, attempted to escape when she was arrested.

Also, Ms. Verta Francine Chase, a 24-year-old student at Coppin State College, who lives in the 3500 block Kaywood Ave., pleaded guilty.

Ms. Beverly A. Rheubottom, 29, is pleaded guilty, she is employed at Social Security and lives in the 7400 block Lasada Dr. Ms. Sheila A. Fleary, 21, 1300 block Wildwood Parkway is employed as a health aide, and Joseph G. Lee, 28, also pleaded guilty.

The other two persons charged in the case, Ms. Cheyenne Jeffers, 27, and India C. Barnes have not yet entered pleas. All the defendants will be sentenced in four weeks.

* * *

Court records reveal the people were found in the act of cutting and bagging heroin. City and federal investigators, recovered heroin and a large quantity of suspected marijuana from the apartment.

Also seized in the raid were assorted glassine envelopes, quinine and other paraphernalia used to cut and package heroin.

Records filed in Federal Court state all of the defendants bagged eroin for approximately 14 hours. The heroin was allegedly "cut" and ready for bagging when it got to the apartment.

Films for classroom provide info on death

Although the topic of death is universal, it may seem miscast or out of place as an exhibit at the Maryland State Teachers Convention which began Thursday at the Civic Center.

But, the Maryland State Funeral Directors Association feels it is a relevant topic that should go back to the classrooms in the form of educational materials.

"As professionals closely associated with death on a daily basis, we are aware of the serious problems and difficulties that can occur when one is faced with death," stated Michael Ruck, convention chairman of the association.

"We believe that an educational program through our schools is an effective way to help young people cope with death and bereavement."

Programs are prepared in color filmstrips and written materials for teacher use in secondary schools.

These programs include "Perspectives on Death," a series designed to fill the void of knowledge about death from such viewpoints as biological reality, social and cultural phenomenon, spiritual and religious event, economic reality, psychological process and part of the total life cycle.

Contained in this package is an audio-visual set with two color filmstrips and cassette tapes, an anthology of readings, a student activity book and a teacher resource book.

1,200 AT SONGFEST FOR SLAIN GOSPEL SINGER

4-hour Gospel Leaders' concert honors the memory of late member, Oscar Minnitt

By Pam Widgeon

There was hand clapping, foot patting and shouts of "Amen" Sunday at Jones Tabernacle Baptist Church, as 1,200 citizens filled the church for the 12th anniversary of the Gospel Leaders and a special tribute to the late member, Oscar T. Minnitt.

"We did not come here to have a funeral. We came to celebrate our anniversary," said Thomas R. Roberts, manager of the group.

However, the climax of the four-hour celebration did honor the memory of Mr. Minnitt, the member of the group who was found bludgeoned to death Sept. 8 in his apartment at 1400 Fillmore St.

For 11 years, Mr. Minnitt had been a member of the nationally known Gospel Leaders, a group which recorded two albums called, "I'll Be a Living Witness" and "His Love Burley Presents the Gospel Leaders."

Other members of the group which has won national fame as Baltimore's Gentlemen of Song are Benjamin Butler, "Norman Dudley, Charles Ellis, Thomas Roberts and Howard Smith.

Still mourning Mr. Minnitt, the group wore black suits as they marched down the aisle. Holding hands in the form of a broken chain, they left a vacant space where Mr. Minnitt would have stood.

At the altar, the group knelt while the Rev. Mrs. Agnes Alston prayed and said, "Even though the ranks have been broken, the other members of the group is looking down today."

Among songs the Gospel Leaders sang were the Lord's Prayer and "Ain't Got Time To Die," which was Mr. Minnitt's favorite song.

The audience stood and participated in the singing of "Ain't Got Time To Die." as several people expressed emotions aloud.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

To mark the Gospel Leaders' 12th Anniversary, 12 gospel groups dressed in colorful robes, sang several songs.

Participating were the Inspirational Choir, Mrs. [illegible] Jackson Trio, Herman Hill Memorial Choir, Suburban Mass Choir, The Majestic Chorale Ensemble and Celesta of Joy.

The Baltimore Fellowship Choir, directed by James Peterson received a standing ovation, after they sang "The Battle Hymn of Republic." Other gospel groups were the Salvation Choral Ensemble, Kings Chorale Ensemble, A. E. Jones Singers and The Excelsiors.

Ministers participating in the ceremonies were Mrs. Pauline Wells Lewis, Mrs. Mary Clayborn and Mrs. Aurelia White.
