MRS. WILSON SPEAKS IN BALTIMORE

NAACP very much alive says new national head

"Some people contend the civil rights movement is dead and so is the NAACP. The NAACP has no intentions of going out of business.

"We are convinced there are people in this country who appreciate what we have done for 66 years and they will stand with us."

The words are those of Mrs. Margaret Bush Wilson, chairman of the National Board of Directors of NAACP. Mrs. Wilson was in Baltimore on Sunday to address the Baltimore branch's ninth annual Freedom Festival Dinner at Blue Crest North.

Mrs. Wilson who flew here from her home is St. Louis, told an estimated 300 persons, "Some of the most profound pieces of litigation started in this country in the sixties, when we were dealing with overt discrimination, trying to ride on buses and finding a place to stay at nights.

"Now the dimension has changed, we have a great many laws on the book and we do not repeat in the seventies the mistakes of 1870.

"If you remember in that period elected officials in the South lost their seats.

* * *

Mrs. Wilson added, "We can be certain of one thing in coming years. There is going to be increased litigation. This association is one of few institutions who can provide leadership not just for black Americans but all of America."

Mrs. Wilson is a practicing attorney in St. Louis, Mo., where she is a member of the bar. She is also a member of the Bar in Illinois and is admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Sunday was Mrs. Wilson's first visit to Baltimore since she became national head of the organization in January 1975, when she was elected by the board to succeed the late AME Zion Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood.

Asked by the AFRO how she felt about being the first woman chief of the 64-member board, Mrs. Wilson said, "I am not preoccupied with my sex and race. I was probably chosen because of my credentials." (Editor's note: Mrs. Wilson is the first woman in this era. From 1917-1932, Mary White Ovington, one of the NAACP's white founders, served as acting chairman.)

During the dinner, awards went to the Rev. Williams W. Payne, pastor of City Temple Baptist Church for outstanding service and the Rev. F. Bredahl Peterson, retired professor from Morgan State University, who stated,

"I am very touched by this and don't know why you honored me." With a quiver in his voice the Rev. Mr. Peterson added, "I was a stranger and you took me in. You have moved me so deeply because you have taken me in."

Other awards and citations went to Mrs. Alease Jones, Mrs. Ida Russell and Leonard Saunders. Life membership plaques Club, Mrs. Lena McKinney, Miss Helen Benton, Mrs. Viola Jackson, Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, Dr. Ernestine Walker, John Hauswald, Zeta Sigma Chapter, Baltimore Chapter of Links.

Also Dr. Billy Davis, Benjamin C. Brooks, United Nurses of Various Churches, Dr. Howard Bell, Dr. Walter R. Tolbot and the Master Beauticians' Association.

Mrs. Enolia P. McMillian, president of the Baltimore branch, received a certificate for being the only person in Maryland to have the "Golden Heritage Life Membership."

Mrs. McMillian stated, "The NAACP has not completed its job. I am sorry Rev. Jesse Jackson feels we have our civil rights. We happen to know better. Discrimination now is much more sophisticated then it use to be."

Following the memorial services for Dr. Lille Mae Jackson, who served as president of the Baltimore branch for 35 years, her grandson, Michael B. Mitchell gave $100 towards a life membership in her honor. Dr. Jackson died July 5, 1975.

In memorialzing of Dr. Jackson, the Rev. Howard L. Cornish, director of Morgan Christian Center, stated, "Life is brief but it is long enough to make friends and forgive enemies. Life is brief, but is long enough to find and worship God.

"Life is brief but long enough for someone to find the NAACP. So many have gone but have given their time to the NAACP."

Other who participated on the program were Mrs. Mary F. Brown, Mrs. Ida Russell, the Rev. Marion C. Bascom, Judge Robert Watts was toastmaster.

Del. Troy Brailey introduced head table guests. Greetings were extended by Jim David representing Mayor Schaefer. Also the Rev. Chester Wickwire, president Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, Dr. William H. Watts, Silas Craft.

GETS EMERITUS HONOR, ARTISTIC SALUTE

Unique testimonial honors Dr. William V. Lockwood

"Dr. Bard, I am honored to have been able to share your Harbor Campus dream and to have been your team member in the fruition of this dream.

"Like King Arthur and Sir Lancelot, we have won many war battles and skirmishes at federal, state, local and internal college levels.

* * *

"Like Moss and Dr. Martin Luther King, we have been to the mountain top and seen the Promised Land, the Harbor Campus dream in full fruition. . . .

. . . a comprehensive community college with two interrelated automomous campuses offering greatly enhanced educational programs and services to the citizens of Metropolitan Baltimore."

* * *

The words are those of Dr. William Vurnell Lockwood. He was speaking at the Sunday afternoon testimonial in his honor at the Community College of Baltimore.

Dr. Lockwood was vice president of the Harbor Campus when he retired this summer because of illness.

At the Sunday affair, President Harry Bard conferred on him the title of vice president emeritus of Harbor Campus, a first in the history of the northwest Baltimore college.

On Monday, the college's board of trustees named 41- year old Raymond Bowen, presently dean of Academic Affairs at La-Guardia Community College, Long Island, N.Y. to succeed Dr. Lockwood.

* * *

For his part in the three year planning of the downtown adjunct to the school, Dr. Lockwood earned the title of "architect" of the harbor campus due to open this summer. This assignment required him to spend most of the last three years planning for it.

The testimonial in his honor on Sunday was in the form of a unique artistic tribute and was held in the Liberty Campus Theatre.

A large crowd of relatives, friends and former associates filled the auditorium for the event which featured musical numbers and performances by the colleges orchestra, choir and dance group.

Orchestra conductor was Benjamin Durant. William Milner was choir conductor and Jaaap van Opstal provided the piano accompaniment.

The dances were directed by Deborah London, assisted by Harriet Lynn.

Featured dancers included, Sandra Sirota, Devra Simon, Ann Mooney and Harrietta Wallace.

Pianist soloist was Marian Buck-Lew. Vocal soloists included Betty Malkus, alto and Chin-Sung Chen, tenor.

These musical and dance numbers consumed most of the highly entertaining afternoon.

* * *

Milton A. Dugger, dean of Community Services, presided at the brief formal program where Dr. Bard awarded the emeritus honor.

There was a citation from Mayor Schaefer, Leonard Lloyd, president of the Student Government presented a plaque from his association.

Prayer was by the Rev. Marion C. Bascom who described Dr. Lockwood as "an example of a dedicated man once he makes himself available."

There was thunderous applause for the honoree when he received the citation as well as for the performers' selections.

* * *

In accepting his award, Dr. Lockwood paid particular tribute to President Bard and other members of the faculty and staff, including his secretary and administrative assistant, Mrs. Leanette M. Pretzken.

He also praised State Senator Clarence Blout, special assistant to the president, who had served as interim head of the Harbor Campus.

In this connection he said "I am deeply appreciative. You have made my career and retirement a victorious era in my life and formalized an emotional tie that I will always have to the Community College of Baltimore."

Members of the X-71 Wives served as hostesses for the reception which followed the testimonial. The honoree is a member of that group.
