Morgan-Grambling preview

New York-born Bears eager for Tiger battle

NEW YORK — It has been a long drought for Morgan football teams in their 12 - year series against Grambling.

After scoring a cliff - hanging 9 - 7 win in the initial Urban League classic at Yankee Stadium, the Bears have dropped 11 in a row. They next meet Sept. 13.

There are a number of players on Morgan's squad who hail from New York City — four are starters. "We've got to win this one in our own backyard," said cornerback Craig Spencer who played New York sandlot ball in the Buddy Young Football League.

The other starters are flankerback Clarence Holzendolf who led the team with 32 receptions good for 442 yards, co - captain and offensive guard Henry King, and offensive tackle Hans Ramsey. Place kicker and the team's leading scorer, David Booker, is also from the Big Apple.

Morgan posted a 9 - 2 record last year but one of the losses was to Grambling.

Grambling, as usual, will have a defensive front four weighing in excess of half - a - ton and bearing All - America credentials.

Grambling coach Eddie Robinson is touting defensive tackle Mike Barker who anchors the defense as a first round draft choice in the National Football League in 1981. Mike is a 21 year older, standing 6 - 5 and tipping the scales at 286 pounds.

Running back Robert Parham is back for his final appearance in the Classic. Parham has been the outstanding offensive player in the last two Classics, racking up record yardage and scoring honors.

Colts' Doughty award finalist

Glen Dought and Gene Upshaw are two of the three finalists under consideration for one of the National Football League's most prestigious awards.

Doughty of the Colts, and Upshaw of the Oakland Raiders, are joined by Ted Albrecht of the Chicago Bears in the closing stages of selection for the recognition as "Humanitarian of the Year."

Presentation of the award will be made Sunday at the 14th annual NFL Players Association Dinner at Chicago's Conrad Hilton Hotel.

The NFLPA will also present most valuable player trophies and nine statistical awards, as well as honoring the best offensive lineman, best linebacker, best defensive lineman, and best offensive and defensive rookies of the 1979 season in both the NFC and AFC.

Preakness verdict no surprise

By Sam Lacy

The 3-1 vote of the Maryland State Racing Commission to uphold the stewards' refusal to alter the result of the May 17 Preakness at Pimlico, came as no real surprise.

The AFRO doubts seriously that the Firestones, owners of Genuine Risk, expected any other conclusion.

The hearing was like one conducted by a man investigating compliants filed against his brother.

At this desk, the most disturbing aspect of the commissioners' answer was the assertion that the sewards had made "a judgment call" similar to those made by umpires and referees in other sports.

That strikes as being puree and simple hogwash. If impires and referees in footbal, baseball, basketball, etc., had the luxury of making a call after "instant replays," it would be an acceptable comparison. They don't. The stewards did.

Perhaps it is true that the video tapes watched by a nationwide audience offered "no clear signs of bumping or brushing," but every tape viewed by the commission, and every still picture shown, clearly showed that jockey Angel Cordero steered his horse Codex well out past the middle of the stretch at a time when Genuine Risk was in full stride and about to pass.

On a race track as fast as was the Pimlico strip on Preakness Day, no jockey — unless he has evil intent — reins his mount six horses wide entering the home stretch. The simple rule of logic is that a straight line is the shortest distance.

Had the track been slow or muddy, running wide would make sense to get away from the inside rail where it is usually deep, thus slowing a horse caught in there.

Also disturbing is the fact that the chief steward, J. Fred Colwill, displayed unmitigated arrogance when he explained at the hearing, his reason for ignoring a report by patrol judge Coley Blind.

Blind, son of the longtime starter Eddie Blind, was stationed at the head of the stretch and told the stewards' stand:

"Cordero (Jockey) looked back, knew she (Genuine Risc) was coming and carried her wide. It appeared it was on purpose."

Said Colwill: "I don't want Coley Blind's conclusion — I wanted my own. I've been around four or five times as long as he has."

At plus-70, Colwill has been seeing and walking at least 40 years longer than Blind, too. But does he see and walk any better?

Heisman to Canada?

The Cleveland Browns' No. 1 choice in the recent college draft — Heisman Trophy winner Charles White of Southern California — will consider defecting to the Canadian Football League if the Browns do not improve their contract offer.

"We aren't at all close," said White's agent, Mike Flanagan. "I'm very surprised by the Browns' offer.

"As a matter of fact, I'm shocked. I don't know if we can get together the way matters stand. The best thing I can say is relations are cordial and (Browns general manager Peter) Hadhazy is negotiating in a very businesslike manner. But we are not making any progress."

When told of Flanagan's comments, Hadhazy said he was surprised, but declined comment.

Paternity suit names Vida Blue

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — San Francisco Giants pitcher Vida Blue is accused in a paternity suit with fathering a boy 13 years ago in Shreveport, La., and with failing to provide adequate support.

The suit, filed by Catherine White, asked for a court order to make Blue pay $1,200 a month in child support and Ms. White's court costs, estimated to be about $7,750.

The suit claimed that Blue had been providing "fluctuating sums of money" for the boy's support but it has not been enough. It said Blue, as a professional baseball player, has "sufficient income to pay the plaintiff any order or judgment that is the result of this action."

The suit said the child, Derek Wayne White, was born in Shreveport, La., Nov. 20, 1967. At that time Blue was a pitcher for the Oakland A's. He was traded to the Giants in April 1978.

Ms. White is now a resident of Alameda, Calif.

Vida Blue support not enough?

No black cardiac victims?

A news release announcing the inauguration of an American Heart Association celebrity - amateur golf tournament in Baltimore in late June, raised a serious question at the AFRO:

Does the AHA propose that cardiac problems affect only whites? That black people do not suffer heart attacks, and have no interest in fighting the disease?

The Baltimore - based association details the day's activities to include breakfast, lunch and golf at the Hunt Valley Club and listed the major participants.

Local TV personalities Vince Bagli, Tom Sweeney, Jerry Turner, and former Colt football player Tom Matte are the "celebrities" with whom the amateurs will have a chance to play.

All four are white, which raised still another question: Why not Willie Richardson, who is both a TV personality and an ex - Colt . . . and who is a better golf player than any of them.

The committee members also are all white: John Kafka, Charlie Dukes, Bruce Laird, Andrea Conlan, Patricia Wiles, John Haines and Bob Draucker.
