Constance Moore Memorial Scholarship Fund follows trail of dream

By Dr. James L. Moore

The 15th Annual Concert features the Morgan State University Choir... Dr. Nathan Carter, Conductor on Sunday, Feb. 15, 5 p.m., at Sharon Baptist Church, Stricker & Presstman Streets. A capacity crowd is expected to attend this Concert.

MISS CONSTANCE MOORE
Feb. 12, 1945-June 27, 1965

On June 6, 1966, a memorial scholarship award was given at Morgan's Commencement to Diane I. Diggs in memory of a young lady who had a dream. That dream started the Constance H. Moore Memorial Scholarship Fund.

All of us have dreamed dreams and have wished that they would come true. Sometimes life says "No" Constance H. Moore from early childhood dreamed a dream. Her dream was to enter the field of Physical Therapy and prepare herself to help the handicapped and those less fortunate than she.

Constance H. Moore, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James L. Moore was born in a family which had every desire to see her succeed. Her father is pastor of one of the representative churches of Baltimore, Sharon Baptist Church.

It seemed that her deepest desire would come true.

Connie was a student of music, piano and vocal, at Peabody. She sang with the choir at Sharon under Mrs. Williams and at Edmondson High under Mrs. Georgia Chester. She took her dream seriously. She worked hard in elementary school, high school and entered Morgan with the same burning desire to help handicapped children.

But something happened, in the background there lurked something over which no human being has control. Connie was the victim of a creeping and insidious sickness, Lupus Erythematosis (a rare kidney ailment).

When she learned of this and the prognosis "Death" she was never frightened, her faith, love of life, love of people and God never faltered.

She would go to Morgan many times weak and sick, often just leaving the hospital, saying in her heart "I've got to get ready to help handicapped children."

Time came when Connie could make it no longer.

On June 27, 1965 at Siani Hospital, the Lord took Connie to a higher place of fulfillment. Before she left she expressed her dream and said to her father, "Daddy, I just want to go to sleep."

It is for this reason her father Dr. James L. Moore, her family, the committee and her many friends established this memorial fund in her name and to follow the trail of her dream.

The Scholarship Fund is for students who are willing to link up their dream with hers. The original amount of the fund from which the first award was given was deposited in the Equitable Trust Company by her father, Dr. James L. Moore.

So impressed was a vice-president of this bank, Walter A. Koerber, with the idea of a scholarship to extend a dream, that he gave his services and became the funds first financial advisor.

The fund is being increased by an annual concert and contributions from the Moore family, friends, concert committee and trustees.

Annual awards are given at Morgans Commencement and at Sharon every August to college and university students.

An unrestricted contribution has been made to the Central Scholarship Bureau. More than 50 awards have been made and more than one hundred 1000 persons serve each year as concert committee sponsors.

Special scholarship awards are available for high school graduates, college and university students in the field of instrumental and vocal music who will use some of their time and talent in the Church.

Local VUU Alumni Chapter sets date for University Choir concert, awards fete

DR. DAVID T. SHANNON President, Virginia Union University

The Miles W. Connor Chapter of the Virginia Union University Alumni Association will present its fifth annual concert featuring the Virginia Union University Choir at 5 p.m. on Sunday, March 15 at the Woodlawn Senior High Auditorium, 1801 Woodlawn Dr.

A special reception honoring Dr. David T. Shannon, the University's eighth president, who is also a graduate and former professor of the University, will be held on Saturday, March 14, at the Fireplace Lounge on the campus of Coppin State College from 3 to 6 p.m.

The invitation-only reception will also pay homage to 10 local citizens that will be inducted in the alumni chapters Hall of Fame.

The choir concert which has drawn capacity crowds for the last five years, will also feature the Singing Disciples of Baltimore and four-year-old Robert Wright Jr. on drums.

The Connor Alumni Chapter of Baltimore is the largest and most active of the alumni chapters at the University, is named after the first president of Coppin State College who was also the founder of the alumni chapter.

Each year since 1975, the alumni chapter has elected 10 local citizens into its Hall of Fame. The award is presented at the concert each year to citizens who have given exemplary leadership in voluntary service.

This years distinguished service awards will go to Dr. Montague J. Brackett, pastor, Central Baptist; Mrs. Mary E. Clayburn, WWIN Radio; Dr. John L. Crew Jr., superintendent of Baltimore Public Schools; Mrs. Naomi Durant of WEBB Radio and Dr. Nathaniel Higgs, pastor of Southern Baptist.

Also Mrs. Emma Madlyn Jones, Social Security Administration; Dr. Olin P. Moyd, pastor Mt. Lebanon Baptist; William Donald Schaefer, mayor of Baltimore City; DeHaven L. Smith, attorney-at-law; Dr. Alfred C.D. Vaughn, pastor, Grace Memorial Baptist and John S. Ward, assistant superintendent of Baltimore County Schools will be honored.

Proceeds from the concert will go to support the Universitys programs and scholarship fund. Last year the Connor Chapter raised $14,200 and recruited 38 students, 12 of whom made the honor roll this past semester. The 1980-81 budget for the Chapter is $30,000.

The chapter has also prepared a 100-page plus souvenir journal for the first time this year that will chronicle the history of the University, the choir and highlight some of the black students currently enrolled at the school.

Virginia Union is an example of a black college founded upon principles of excellence in education and character. That tradition continues strongly today, with many students struggling to get through public schools or being buffeted around in white mega-universities, thre recently has not been as much support as is necessary.

Although black colleges are generally under seige and face severe cutbacks in state and federal grants, Virginia Union is totally indep endent, relying on its own fund-raising capabilities.

The choir tour is a part of a long tradition of black colleges, who for years have toured the East and Europe to help support their schools. Fisk University and Tuskegee were pioneers in this tradition.

Union's current choir director, Dr. Odell Hobbs, conducted the Tuskegee choir for three years prior to coming to Union. Educated at Howard, Catholic U. and Western Colorado U., he had taught at Virginia Commonwealth U., and J. Sargent Reynolds Community College and lectured at Howard and Scarritt College in Nashville.

The program combines Palestrian, Brahms and Hayden with the classical black spiritual arrangements of William Dawson, Hall Johnson and H. T. Burleigh, gospel and jazz too.

Mrs. Elnora Fullwood, wife of the chapter president, planned the elegant reception for the alumni, parents of students currently attending the University, local businessmen, elected officials, educators, former honorees and supportive lay persons.

Officers of the Miles W. Connor Chapter are Harlow Fullwood Jr. president; David S. Jones, vice-president & treasurer; Mrs. LaBarbara Fauntleroy, secretary; Mrs. Martha E. Valentine, corresponding secretary and Harold W. Jackson, assistant to the treasurer.

Opinion Messages and Mailgrams is 800-257-2211.

Telegrams and POMs are delivered to the legislators offices; they are not delivered to the floor of either house.

TELEPHONE

If you wish to make a personal contact in Annapolis, you will need to know when a delegate or senator is available.

It is often necessary to make an appointment through his or her office, as their day is tightly scheduled with the floor session and committee hearings.

Legislators often eat a quick lunch in their offices or during committee hearings. You may be able to make a short contact between meetings but don't expect much of their time without prior planning.

You may catch a legislator you wish to see in the State House Lobby when a floor session ends, or in the halls before a committee hearing begins.

A legislator's time is limited so your conversation should be short and to the point. If you ramble on, he will lose interest.

TELEGRAMS

Follow the same guidelines given for letter writing.

Public Opinion Messages are telegrams which may be sent to any elected official at a special rate. You may send 15 words for $2, your name and address are free.

WHITE LETTER

Address you letter to: The Honorable John Doe, Senate Office Building (or House of Delegates Office Building) Annapolis, Md. 21401.

The salutation is "Dear Senator Doe," or, for a delegate, simply "Dear Mr. Doe."

If possible, have your letter typewritten. Otherwise, make sure you write legibly so the letter is easy to read.

A personal letter in your own words and on your own stationary is more effective than a copied letter or form prepared by someone else.

Write about only one bill in a letter and identify the bill by number and - or popular name.

Be brief. Explain your position clearly and why you hold it.

Be courteous, never threatening or demanding.

If you think a minor change would improve the bill, suggest an amendment.

Write to the legislators in your Legislative District first.

Express your approval for a good job or a position you appreciate.

DID YOU HAVE A GOOD TIME? — This is what Leonard Mines, a Poly graduate said as he was helping prepare the Gist Elementary youngsters to leave Annapolis after a long day's journey. The pupils are Joel Isaac Lewis, Roy Nelson and Ronald Leslie.
