Ullanda

Ullanda McCullough

While Ullanda may not exactly be a household name (yet), her voice has no doubt been heard in the majority of American households. Over the past few years, she has built an enviable career as one of the most sought-after vocalists on the highly competitive New York session scene.

Her extensive list of credits includes supporting vocal work with the likes of Diana Ross, Bette Midler, Ashford & Simpson, Spinners, (her co-lead on "Heavy on the Sunshine" was a high point of their "Love Trippin" LP), Carly Simon, Quincy Jones, Millie Jackson, and many, many more. She has also been the featured singer on a host of national radio and TV commercials - McDonald's, Colt 45, Burger King, Pontiac, and the list goes on and on. Her contributions to film soundtracks include work on "Hair", "All That Jazz", and "The Wiz".

Records

Now, with the release of her debut album for Atlantic Records, "Ullanda McCullough", Ullanda takes a giant step out from behind the scenes and emerges as a major talent in her own right.

Born and raised in Detroit, Ullanda was the third born of five children. She began to take an interest in singing when she was around six years old, later joining both her junior high school and church choirs. In the 9th grade, she landed the lead in the high school production of "The King And I" and she continued to star in the school musical every year until her graduation. Meanwhile, Ullanda also entered every talent contest in the area, and she was a regular dancer on the local TV show "Swing Time".

Shortly after her graduation from high school, Ullanda joined up with Joyce Wilson and Telma Hopkins, who were already established as session vocalists. The trio worked on a number of records, including such hits as Johnny Taylor's "Who's Making Love" and Freda Payne's "Band Of Gold". When that group disbanded, Ullanda's new partners were her old school friend Pam Vincent and Sherrie Payne. Together, the new trio worked with Dionne Warwick, the Funkadelics, a host of projects by the famed Holland-Dozier-Holland production/writing team, and many others. Ullanda also sang with the Andantes, the Motown label's back-up group.

In early 1975, Ullanda embarked on a three-month European tour with the group Honeycomb. Later that year, a tour with Eloise Laws brought Ullanda to New York, where she auditioned for Consumer Rapport. She got the job and played a series of club dates across the country before the ensemble broke up. Meanwhile, Ullanda had moved to New York City, and so she began to make the proverbial rounds, meeting various commercial record producers.

Among the numerous artists to whom Ullanda has given her vocal support, one of her longest - standing relationships has been with Nickolas Ashford and Valerie Simpson. Since 1976, Ullanda has been a regular recording and touring member of the duo's back-up group. So when the time came to select a producer for her first Atlantic album, Ullanda invited her old friends Nick and Val to take on the project. Recorded in New York, Ashford & Simpson also penned all the tunes on "Ullanda McCullogh" and brought in some of the best players around to do it up right.

A simply superb effort from beginning to end, "Ullanda McCullough" is a varied, impressive group of tunes. Kicking things off is the classic-sounding rockin' R & B of "Bad Company", the LP's first single pick. Other side one highlighters are the irresistable pop of "Warm And Gentle Explosion" and the soaring ballad "Love Had Changed My Life."

On the flip side, we are treated to such diverse offerings as the sophisticated cabaret pop of "It's You", the infectious R & B of "You're Gonna Wanna Come Back", and the concluding, rousing "Rock Me."

Hal Williams stars in Private Benjamin

Lorna Patterson, Eileen Brennan and Hal Williams star in "Private Benjamin," a new comedy series, based on the current hit motion picture, premiering and beginning a limited run Monday, Apr. 6 at 8:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Lorna Patterson portrays Judy Benjamin, the pampered New York socialite who finds herself in basic training in Today's Army, dressed in "yucky" olive drab, ready to send the chipped-beef-on-toast back to the chef.

Eileen Brennan, nominated for an Academy Award for her role in the current feature film, reprises her role of the hard-nosed career officer, Capt Doreen Lewis, who is constantly non-plussed by the dangerous combination of innocence and intelligence she finds in Benjamin.

Hal Williams also reprises his role from the movie as the gruff drill instructor, Sgt Ted Ross, caught between the high-strung, gung-ho captain and the plucky Private Judy Williams is no stranger to television viewers. For four years, he was a semi-regular as Smitty, the hip policeman on "Sanford and Son." He was also one of the regulars in the short-lived series "On the Rocks."

Hal Williams will reprise the role of Sgt. Ted Ross.

An only child, Williams was born in Columbus, Ohio, where he spent his time going to movies and wishing he could be a cowboy. He loved acting and took part in many grammar and high school plays. Even though he worked in several different jobs, the acting profession won out and in 1970, he appeared in "Right On, Brother" which was seen by an agent and led to Hal's appearance in three commercials. Things began to fall into place, and Williams has been working at his craft ever since.

Victor Tavares

Victor Tavares has new album by the same name.

The Tavares family name has been synonomous with cross-over rhythm and blues smashes such as "More Than A Woman", "She's Gone", and "It Only Takes A Minute". It all began for the Brothers with "Check It Out", a top R & B hit with Victor Tavares handling lead vocals.

Now Victor breaks out with his own solo debut album, "Victor Tavares". Produced by brother "Butch" and Benjamin Wright (one of the music industry's hottest music men, having arranged "Rock With Me" for Michael Jackson, "Boogie Wonderland", and other top tracks for Earth, Wind and Fire, as well as cuts for Shalimar and Whispers), "Victor Tavares" is an irresistible collection of steamy soul and percussive rhythms.

Stand-out tunes include "First House On the Right Side", "Come Into the Heartbreak", "So Good" and an unexpectedly delightful cover of J.D. Loudermilk's "Then You Can Tell Me Goodbye".

Victor Tavares has assembled a superlative line-up to help him on the album, featuring R & B practitioners like guitarists Paul Jackson, Jr., David T. Walker and David Williams; bassist, James Jamerson, Jr.; drummer Nathaniel Neblett, famed percussionist Paulino DeCosta; keyboardists John Barnes, Jr., Toney Coleman, Rene Moore, Angela Winbush and Benjamin Wright himself.

A red-hot horn section highlighted by George Bohanon and Garnett Brown on bones along with trumpeters extraordinaire Robert O. Bryant, Sr., Oscar Brashear and Nohlan Smith round out the talented ensemble, known collectively as the Benjamin Wright Orchestra.

A 14-piece string section and an eight-person choir, including brother "Butch", support Victor's red-hot vocals with swirling textures amidst the big band sound.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORIAM

NEELY, SARAH E. MURPHY — In loving memory of our dear mother who departed this life on March 26, 1967.
We often think of the days gone by,
When we were all together.
A shadow over our life was cast,
A loved one gone forever.
Her life, a beautiful memory,
Her absence, a silent grief.
She sleeps in God's beautiful garden,
In the sunshine of perfect peace.
Sadly missed and never to be forgotten by her children:
Clementine E. Knox;
John H. Murphy, III;
Jeanne M. Queene and Betty N. Weaver.

GORE - In loving memory of my dear husband, WILLIAM B. GORE, who passed away April 3, 1979.
Today my heart is heavy,
My thoughts are sad and blue.
Oh, how I miss you WILLIAM, dear,
None but God in Heaven can see.
Some say time heals an aching heart;
But no, it isn't true,
For two long years have passed dear,
And my heart still aches for you.
Loving Wife,
MARIE M. GORE
