What's Happening

IDA PETERS

Few things excite this reporter who has been hugged by Teddy Pendergrass, followed the Yellow Brick Road with Michael Jackson and Diana Ross in New York; been hugged and talked with Dionne Warwick and Issac Hayes.

Then again we've been to Texas with The Supremes and to Detroit when Motown used to give fabulous parties for the Gordy's... Barry Gordy that is when his mother and father were alive.

We're kind of excited today at AFRO prestime. My wonderful AFRO staff have been excited ever since the white envelope stamped in gold from "The White House" arrived.

The invitation reads: The President and Mrs. Reagan request the pleasure of your company at a concert and reception to be held at the White House, Thursday Afternoon, September 10, 1981 at five o'clock.

A small white card enclosed is engraved "On the occasion of a Salute to Lionel Hampton".

We have dutifully responded to The Social Secretary, The White House and given our date of birth and social security number.

And, on the advice of Pauline Brooks, we're wearing a black Ultra-Suede suit with cherry silk blouse and carrying our precious Louis Vitton bag.

Ethel at City Jail

Ethel Ennis on stage at City Jail.

This past Tuesday turned into a rainy day and sort of complicated the visit of Ethel Ennis and her combo to City Jail.

It was planned as a concert for the entire prison population and was supposed to be held in the yard. However, it was held in the gym of the main building on Eager Street.

Miss Evelyn Woods, director of Inmate Services; Deputy Warden Randy Corcoran, Deputy Warden Herbert Parker and James Drewery, Security Liaison are all to be commended. And, while there have been some small concerts at City Jail and the AFRO has had parties at Christmas for Women in my memory this is the first concert in my memory of such magnitude since Redd Foxx and Slappy White visited some years ago and it was held in the yard. Ethel wore green satin pants and an Oriental Shirt in red and green shot with gold threads. City Jail is a depressing place and the gym was not air-conditioned. Just getting to the gym was a hassle passing thru gates that clanged ominously. It might be a good idea to run neighborhood toughs on tour and Baltimore's crime rate would drop immediately.

Earl Arnett, Ethel's husband supervised the proceedings raised platform at one end of the gym served as a stage. He got a few boos frm the good natured predominately black crowd and in the show this reporter caught, there were about three white women and four white men.

Her songs included "Celebrate Life", "Dindi", a Portuguese love song. On this one she urged the audience to imitate the sound of waves hitting the beach. One wag said "I don't feel like going to the beach".

Other songs were "Don't Make Your Move Too Soon" which drew laughs; "Jive Talking" which got the place rocking and "I Love You Just The Way You Are".

Asked Ethel Ennis for a comment the next day. Her answer is revealing.

"The reason why I'm there or anywhere is because I believe music can be healing and rehabilitating. It goes back to what I call "Soft Power". We all have that gift. "Soft Power" is the spirituality in us all. It's caring and sharing and that's love".

The band backing Ethel Ennis included Gaynell Colburn, percussion; Lurenda Featherstone, drums; Mark Russell on Bass; Charles Covington on keyboards and Gary Dailey on trumpet.

And Ethel Ennis and this group really cooked and city jail inmates really got a treat.

The Amazing Josini

Visitors in our office this week and looking very prosperous were "The Amazing Josini" the magician and ventriloquist and his manager Rodney Ra Akbar. This summer they have been visiting radio stations on the East Coast promoting Herb Alpert's new album "Magic Man" for A&M Records.

Last weekend they performed at Larry Holmes' Round One Club in Easton, Pa. and the champ was so impressed he's flying Josini and Rodney to Las Vegas to perform at Caesar's Palace on Nov. 5.

And that's not all. Josini is going to be the opening act at Painter's Mill, Sept. 18-19 with the Manhattans and the Softones. And, on Oct. 2 he will open for Jimmie J.J. Walker at U.M.B.C.

"The Amazing Josini" and Rodney RaAkbar are finally getting the breaks.

Mechanic's new season has James Earl Jones and 'One Mo' Time'

The Morris A. Mechanic Theatre will open its 1981-82 season with James Earl Jones and Christopher Plummer starring in the American Shakespeare Theatre's production of "Othello". The three-week run, as part of the Mechanic's sixth subscription season, begins Tues., Sept. 29, at 7:30 p.m., with performances through Sat., Oct. 17.

Both James Earl Jones and Christopher Plummer are consummate classical theatre actors and have wide exposure on both television and major motion picture films, with each garnering numerous awards and nominations for Broadway's Tony, television's Emmy, and the screen's Oscar. Peter Coe, regarded as one of the world's foremost directors, will stage "Othello" which is touring major cities throughout the nation.

James Earl Jones most recently appeared on Broadway in the critically acclaimed "A Lesson From Aloes". His other Broadway credits include "Paul Robeson", which he performed at the Mechanic Theatre in 1978; "Of Mice and Men"; and his Tony Award winning performance as Jack Jefferson in "The Great White Hope". In addition to his Tony Award, James Earl Jones has won the Drama Desk Award and two Obie Awards.

He was nominated for an Oscar for the film version of "The Great White Hope" and was nominated for a Golden Globe Award as "Best Actor in the film "Claudine". Additional film credits include the voice of Darth Vader in both "Star Wars" and "The Empire Strikes Back as well as starring roles in such films as "Bingo Long", "The Swashbuckler", and "Dr. Strangelove".

Jones was nominated for television's Emmy Award for his role in the episode of "Who Do You Kill?" as part of the series, "East Side, West Side". Recent television appearances include the CBS series "Paris"; the highly acclaimed "Roots-the Second Generation" as he played the role of author Alex Haley; and the role of Balthazar in the multiple part television series, "Jesus of Nazareth".

Christopher Plummer will portray Shakespeare's masterly villain Iago to Mr. Jones' Othello. Plummer's first Shakespearean role in the United States was with the American Shakespeare Theatre in 1953 premier season. Since the time, he has played the lead roles in most of Shakespeare's greatest works not only in the United States, but in Canada with Sir Tyrone Guthrie's Stratford Ontario Festival and in Great Britain with Sir Laurence Olivier's National Theatre and Sir Peter Hall's Royal Shakespeare Company. In Great Britain, Plummer was the recipient of the London Evening Standard Award for the Best Stage Performance by an Actor as King Henry II in the production of "Becket".

He won Broadway's Tony Award for his role in the musical "Cyrano" and has thrilled audiences with his performances in "Hamlet", "Twelfth Night", Romeo and Juliet", "The Royal Hunt of the Sun", "The Good Doctor", "Arturo Ui" and JB". His television credits include an Emmy Award for "The Moneychangers" plus additional nominations

Winfield stars in sea drama

Two trained dolphins discover some bounty from a Spanish galleon that sank in the Atlantic Ocean three centuries ago prompting a deadly race to recover the sunken loot in "Key Tortuga" a one-hour adventure drama to be broadcast on Friday, Sept. 11 8-9 p.m. on CBS.

Scott Thomas, Brett Cullen, Janet Julian, and Paul Winfield as Cyclone Williams star in the drama, which is set in the Florida Keys and filmed in Florida and the Bahamas.

Thomas portrays Captain John Jack Tyree, a Hemingway-esque skipper who is disinterested in his son Brett Cullen and daughter's Janet Julian fascination with dolphin communication until their two trained dolphins, Delphine and Largo, recover a sunken treasure. Tyree and his children, along with their close friend Cyclone Williams (Paul Winfield), soon learn that others are also aware of the bounty — and will stop at nothing to secure it.

Paul Winfield was nominated for an Academy Award for his role in "Sounder" and for an Emmy Award for his performance as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in the mini-series "King." His numerous television appearances include roles in such mini-series as "Roots II" and "Backstairs at the White House," and in the motion picture-for-television "Angel City." Other feature film credits include "Conrack," "Hustle," "Twilight's Last Gleaming" and "Carbon Copy."

Scott Thomas has guest starred on numerous television series, ranging from "Bonanza" to "MacMillan and Wife" to "Project UFO." He has an extensive classical background on the stage, and has acted at such theaters as the New York Shakespeare Festival, the American Shakespeare Festival in Connecticut, the Globes Shakespeare Festival in San Diego, the Tyrone Guthrie Theater, Lincoln Center and the Mark Taper Forum.

Brett Cullen, a native Texan, had amassed an impressive list of stage credits at the Houston Shakespeare Festival when he was discovered by John Travolta's personal manager during the Houston filming of "Urban Cowboy." The manager urged Cullen to move to Los Angeles. Three weeks after he did, he was cast as Gideon Chisholm in the series "The Chisholms."
