High School students win alumni scholarships

GREENSBORO, N.C. - Four talented high school students have been selected by the A&T State University National Alumni Association to receive scholarships worth up to $12,000 each.

Winners of the awards were Riley A. Hamilton III, Springfield, Virginia; Tonya Annette Crawford, Reidsville, N.C.; Ronald Kenith Lawrence Jr., Gainesville Florida; and Gail Spaulding Frasier, Columbus, Ohio.

Announcing the scholarships last Saturday was Dr. Velma Speight, president of the A&T State University National Alumni Association.

According to Dr. Speight, the students comprise the association's first National Alumni Scholars. The awards will be worth $2,000 per year for an in-state student and $3,000 per year for an out-of-state student. The scholarships are renewable for four years providing the students maintain at least a "B" average.

Hamilton will graduate from West Springfield High School in June. He is a member of the school's football team, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Students Concerned About Minority Affairs and the Hi-Y. He will major in industrial engineering at A&T.

Miss Crawford will graduate from the prestigious North Carolina School of Science and Math in Durham, N.C. She is active in the band and chorus and will major in biology at A&T.

Lawrence, who hope to major in business administration at A&T, has been active in the Esquire Service Club, the French Club, choir, jazz ensemble and drama club.

Miss Frasier will study electrical engineering at A&T. She has served with the Student Council, Columbus Symphony Youth Orchestra, Junior Olympics, Student Eastmoor Symphonic Band, and softball and track teams.

Dr. Speight said the alumni association will add four National Alumni Scholars to the program until a total of 20 is reached. These will be sustained through four years of study at A&T.

Heading the scholarship committee is James Bridgett, Columbia, S.C.

The A&T scholarship committee is composed of James Bridgett, Columbia, S.C.; Howard Barnhill, Charlotte, N.C.; and John Maye, Troy, N.C.

PROFESSOR HONORED — Dr. Harold Powell, professor of speech pathology and chairman of the Department of Habilitative Sciences at SCSC, left, displays a string art replica of the college mascot, the Bulldog, from Miss Thalia J. Coleman, assistant professor of speech pathology. The art work was sent by a former student.

Powell honored at luncheon

ORANGEBURG, SC — Dr. Harold Powell, professor of speech pathology and chairman of the Department of Habilitative Sciences at South Carolina State College was recently honored at a luncheon in the Kirkland W. Green Student Center.

Moving tributes were given by his co-workers, representatives of state agencies in Georgia and South Carolina, friends and former teachers. The tributes also included cards, letters, gifts, and messages from people throughout the United States. Dr. Powell organized the college clinic over 20-years ago.

A letter from the executive director of the National Black-Speech-Language — Hearing Association hailed Dr. Powell as "an institution . . . We, as black speech, language and hearing professionals, have tasted the fruits of this long struggle, his battles won, and his fine contributions to the profession."

Dr. Powell, the first black person from Coleton County (SC) to receive a Ph.D degree, was the first black person to earn the doctorate degree in speech pathology from Pennsylvania State University.

Family members attending the luncheon included Mrs. Deloris Smalls of Charleston; Mrs. Hazel Foster, Mrs. Rebbeca Campbell, Mrs. Janie B. Gant, Mrs. Lillie Lincoln, Mrs. Flossie M. Wright and Benamin Mitchell, all of Jacksonboro, SC. Miss Mazalene Gant came from Bloomfield, CT and Mrs. Birdie M. Cady journeyed to the celebration from Windsor, CT.

Women's Day

Juanita Staton Clement, daughter of the late James E. and Annie Drain Staton of East Spencer was the keynote speaker for Women's Day at Shady Grove Baptist Church. Theme for the day was Today's Women in Economics.

Mrs. Clement retired at the end of the 1980-81 school year, closing out a very rewarding professional career. Her work experiences include Dunbar High School, Edgecomb County Schools, Columbia, South Fayetteville City Schools and Fayetteville Technical Institue. She is married to W. Leroy Clement, a career military retiree who is presently Director of Personnel at Fayetteville State University.

The Clements have one daughter, Anne Clement Arrington, a Social Services Training Specialist for Hampton, Virginia Department of Social Services and a grandson, Russell D. Arrington.

Tea

The Stewardess Board recently sponsored a Tea in the Educational Building of Soldiers Memorial AME Zion Church. Mistress of Ceremonies was Mrs. Wilhemia Boyd. Scripture was read by Mr. Floyd Wilkins. Prayer was led by Mrs. Mae Troy Byers and the welcome was given by Mrs. Minnie Pinkney. Mrs. Velta Roberts rendered a solo and a poetic reading was given by Mrs. Avis Monore. Rev. Claude Christopher accompanied by Mrs. Christopher, did a solo, 'One Day at a Time', and along with Mrs. Marie Henderson, president, Stewardess Board 3-A, gave closing remarks.

Pinkney

Mrs. Minnie B. Pinkney of East Council Street was named 1982 Mother of the Year by the local chapter of the NAACP on last few Sundays ago at White Rock A.M.E. Zion Church in Granite Quarry.

Mrs. Pinkney is a member of Soldiers Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church where she serves on the usher board, is advisor to the junior usher board, advisor for the district junior board, secretary of the Salisbury district board and is a member of the pastor's aid board. She is the proud mother of 10 children and is a licensed practical nurse.

Men's Day

Granite Quarry - Men's Day - was observed at White Rock AME Zion Church with the Rev. White, pastor, speaking on "Jesus, and the Men Who were Afraid."

Music was provided by the men's and senior choirs under the director direction of Edrena Turner.

The afternoon speaker was the Rev. Kevin McGill, pastor of Rockwell AME Zion Church in Charlotte.

Men's Day chairman is Clarence Shuford Jr. and co-chairmen are Jasper Vinson and Dan Alston. Men from area churches have been invited to participate in the men's chorus.

Norma Ross

Nora Dunlap Ross, daughter of Mrs. Jeanette L. Dunlap of White Rock Avenue, Granite Quarry, has graduated with honors from Livingstone College with a bachelor of science degree in office administration.

She was a member of the off campus assembly and business club, and is an applicant to the national dean's list. She is a member of White Rock AME Zion Church and an officer of the Salisbury District of the AME Zion Church.

CETA project planned at S.C. State College

ORANGEBURG, S.C. — South Carolina State College has designed a summer project with the Comprehensive Employment Training Act for Summer Youth Training, Employment and Career Exploration proposed for June 14 through July 24. Applications will be taken for 1982 high school graduates ages 14 - 21 from throughout the state.

"Participants will spend four and one - half hours each day in communications, mathematics and science skills and for three hours in the afternoon they will be employed at work sites which support their career choices. One day each week the students will participate in career education exploration and development activities," said Dr. Joann G. Boyd, project director. "Of course, they will live on campus during the six weeks," she added.

The project is designed to improve academic performance, and introduce youth to activities necessary to successful career planning and placement. It will provide a wealth of first - hand experience in a variety of professional career settings, and enhance self concept and personal growth through participation in social and cultural events of the college community.

It will also provide the role models for youth in career areas of their choices. The youth participants will be assessed in work activities related to their career choice.

The college will administer the project through the Office of Academic Affairs and the Counseling and Self - Development Center.

While funding is pending, Dr. Boyd urges youth interested in the program to call 536-7074 for additional information.

Wyche awarded Fulbright grant

Miss Barbara D. Wyche, an instructor of social sciences at Elizabeth City State University, has been awarded a Department of Education 1982 Fulbright Grant. The grant, awarded through the department's International Education Programs, will enable Miss Wyche to participate in a Summer Seminar on India's Great Books, during a six-week period in India.

Miss Wyche, a doctoral candidate at Boston University, feels that this summer's experiences in India will be most beneficial to her studies since a portion of her areas of specialization at BU includes cross-national and developmental sociology. In 1978, she participated in a summer seminar on African Ethnic Heritage, in Upper Volta and Sierra Leone.

One of two faculty members to be the first to be awarded a University of North Carolina award for doctoral studies, Miss Wyche now looks forward to the summer studies in India. Dates of the have been set for center of the seminar.

The summer seminar includes discussions, lectures and courseworks on Indian literature and literary traditions from the classical to the modern periods. It focuses attention on "the examination of several of India's great books and their influences on non-western heritage," affording a greater understanding of India's culture.

Employed, in 1976 at ECSU, as a National Teaching Fellow, Miss Wyche is a 1972 graduate of Johns Hopkins University. She has held positions at BU, Virginia State University, the Boston City Hospital, and with the Boston Police Department.

AUGUSTA, GA - Paine College passed the $1.1-million mark in its two-year million Second Century Fund with a $50,000 grant from the Booth-Ferris Foundation.

Dr. Julius S. Scott, president, said that alumni and church drives, currently underway, project success for the capital campaign in the history of the 76-year old institution is directed at the local community. Chairman is John Woods, chief executive officers of AmSouth Bancorporation.

The college has earmarked $3-million each for renovation of campus facilities and endowment for faculty, and staff supplements.

HAWKINS, TX - Jarvis Christian College received a $55,000 alumni challenge from the Bush Foundation for 1982.

Alumni must raise $30,000 in new unrestricted dollars and increase participants by 250.

The foundation initiated the challenge program with private black colleges in 1976. It is funded by Bush and the William and Flora

Church members speak

Why we are concerned

The AME Zion Discipline was organized, written and set forth the same year that the Constitution of the United States was written. Only rules and regulations were included to upgrade our Christian leadership in our church community.

Rev. G. Ray Coleman was moved to Washington, D.C. in 1980 after serving St. Stephen AME Zion Church, High Point, N.C. for nine (9) years. For three (3) years, pledges and money for rallies amounted to $28,000 and was left to pay off the mortgage. After Rev. Coleman's departure, Rev. Andrew Mackey Jr. was assigned to replace him by the Rt. Rev. Alfred G. Dunston, the presiding Bishop.

At the end of this year, Rev. Andrew Mackey Jr. created many conditions that caused concern of the membership. There hadn't been a sermon preached that I can remember that was not reprimanding the members for some personal concern of his.

The members of the Trustee and Steward Boards who did not agree with his Hitler - like tactics were replaced. The ones who were retained and the ones who replaced the previous ones had not been trained according to the AME Discipline which is the law of our church. Because of that, there has been unrest, distrust and discontent

According to our Discipline, no funds should be disbursed from the church treasury unless done by the approval of the Board of Trustees. Rule No. 423 of 1980 discipline states that the chairman shall call and preside over all the meetings of the board and shall sign all orders for the paying out of money by the treasurer from the treasury.

The secretary shall keep a faithful record of all the meetings and transactions of the board, draw up and counter - sign all orders of the treasurer for paying out of monies. At the present time, the pastor, Rev. Andrew Mackey Jr. is writing all checks and his private secretary, who is not a member of the Board of Trustees, is counter - signing.

Election of church officials which is the Board of Trustees and Stewards, shall be first nominated by the pastor in charge and elected by the membership. The Board of Trustees elects their own chairman, secretary and treasurer at their first meeting after the church election.

At St. Stephen AME Zion Church, Rev. Andrew Mackey Jr. appoints his own officers, class teachers and presidents of all boards and clubs. He refuses to call a church meeting because he doesn't want any input from the membership. He won't visit the sick members unless at one time or other they have done something outstanding monetarily for him or for his family.

Our church van was refinanced by two ladies who were not members of the Trustee Board. Other loans and bills incurred by the church have been done without consultation with the Board of Trustees. Only two other members plus Rev. Mackey handle the money. Our church credit is BAD!"

We have reasons to believe that Rev. Mackey gives the church money to the Bishop for things other than connectional dues and at meetings other than those required by our church.

When he is confronted with the misuse of funds, he refuses to give any clear explanation of this. He made the following statement during the Holy Week services twice, "I will get my salary and preach by candlelight if that is all the money that is raised."

This committee made an unfruitful attempt to meet with the presiding Elder, Dr. Stephen A. Speight, because we were unable to get beyond his wife.

The above facts show why some of St. Stephen AME Zion members are concerned.

RALEIGH, NC - St. Augustine's College, in its 115th year, announced a $13-million development campaign over the next ten years.

Dr. Prezell R. Robinson, president, launched the expansion drive at Founders' Day observances. Guests included more than 350 corporate leaders, alumni, trustee and friends of the college.

Dr. John Theodore Fey, chairman of the board, Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S., is campaign chairman. Dr. Fey is the former president of the University of Vermont and the University of Wyoming.

The college's alumni association simultaneously announced a $2-million campaign as part of the AUGUSTA, GA - Dr. Julius S. Scott, president of Paine College since 1975, becomes associate general secretary of the of the Board of Higher Education in the United Methodist Church in July.

The board serves the 137 United Methodist-affiliated institutions across the nation, of which Paine is one.

Under President Scott, Paine eliminated indebtedness, built a morden administration building, increased gifts from alumni by 50 percent and from other sources by 107 percent, and increased doctorates on the faculty from 19 to 42 percent.

BIRMINGHAM, AL - Miles College raised $1,225,000 of $2-million capital campaign goal in its first two months.

James W. Edwards

James Edwards

James W. Ewards, owner-operator of Edwards Funeral Home for thirty-four years died Sunday, May 23, 1982 at Wilson Memorial Hospital. Funeral services were conducted at Chapel Missionary Baptist Church in Elm City, North Carolina. The Rev. John Mangun officiated. Burial followed at the William Chapel Cemetery.

Edwards was a member of the American Legion Post number 17, where he served as Post Commander, Pride of Wilson Masonic Lodge number 484, the North Carolina and National Funeral Directors Association, and the Professional Social Club, where he served as assistant treasurer.

He attended the American Academy of Mortuary Science in New York City, New York, from which he received an Applied Science degree. In 1948, he returned to Wilson and joined his late brother, Oliver, in establishing Edwards Funeral Home. In 1963, he became owner and operator of the funeral home and served in this capacity until his death.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Josephine Farmer Edwards of the home; two daughters, Dr. Angela Edwards, Hempstead, New York and Miss Carla Edwards of the home. He is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Mae Edwards Guzman, Wilson, North Carolina, Mrs. Euna Edwards Little, New York City, New York, and Mrs. Lizzie Edwards Williams, Rocky Mount, North Carolina; two brothers, Dr. Chauncy Edwards, Fayetteville, North Carolina, and Mr. Robert Edwards, Hope Mills, North Carolina.

The Clements have one daughter, Anne Clement Arrington, a Social Services Training Specialist for Hampton, Virginia Department of Social Services and a grandson, Russell D. Arrington.

BETZ

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

Betz is a worldwide corporation and one of the acknowledged leaders in the marketing of engineered programs and specialty chemicals to the refining, power, paper, steel, and chemical industries. Located in picturesque Bucks County, Pennsylvania, Betz Laboratories Inc. facilities are home base for numerous research, engineering and administrative personnel. We provide the most effective combination of support equipment and services available in the water treatment industry. We are looking for talented individuals to join our company in the following areas:

FIELD SALES ENGINEERS

Opportunities are available within the Betz organization in the areas of Water Treatment, Paper Chemicals, Process Chemicals, and Oil Field Chemicals. Positions involve creativity, troubleshooting and the sale of specialty chemicals to large industrial accounts. You should be a self-starter with 2 years engineering or sales experience and possess a degree in one of the technical sciences.

SCIENTISTS

Challenging opportunities in our R & D Laboratories are available for Scientists at the PhD, MS and BS degree levels, in Chemistry or related field, at our Trevose, PA corporate headquarters and Houston, TX area research centers. Our extensive investment in research facilities has been rewarding. We feel confident in our commitment to research both in terms of employing talented people and supporting them with the resources to perform their job successfully.

PROCESS ENGINEERS

Positions involve technical troubleshooting and problem solving within most major industries, such as steel, petrochemical and power. To qualify as a Betz process specialist, you must possess a BS degree in chemical engineering; ME or related degree plus 2 years relevant experience.

The excellent quality of our Chemical Treatment Programs is determined by the skills of the people involved in making it happen. We invite you to apply your skills with our 50 plus years of leadership in developing and applying water treatment technology.

We offer a competitive salary and comprehensive paid benefits program. Forward your resume, stating position of interest and salary history to:
