The State Aviation Administration of the Maryland Department of Transportation is soliciting information on aviation transportation analysts interested in rendering services relative to the air service planning and economic analysis element of the Baltimore - Washington International Airport (BWI) Air Service Development Program. Since it inception in 1974, this Program has sought to increase the level of commercial air service provided to increase the level of commercial air service provided the travelling and shipping public through State of Maryland owned and operated BWI. This program has assumed ever greater importance to Maryland and BWI since October 24, 1978, recognizing the ease of market entry and exit, and other Airline Deregulation Act provisions moving the industry from a regulated regime to a competitive marketplace.

Firms actively engaged in air transportation economic analysis are invited to write the AviationAdministration's Manager of Analysis and Policy Development. Interested firms will receive a questionnaire, to be completed and return to the Aviation Administration before 10:30 a.m. EDST on Friday, August 27, 1982. The completed questionnaires (i.e., the "information due") will be formally and publicly opened at this time in the Administration's Assembly Room, located on the Third Floor, Airport Terminal Building, Baltimore - Washington International Airport, Maryland 21240-0766.

An intra-Departmental selection panel will evaluate these questionnaires in terms of a price and a technical element, and the award will, therefore, be based on the lowest evaluated bid price. The five - member selection panel, in evaluating the technical element, shall apply the following general criteria: (1) firm experience; (2) management - personnel qualifications; (3) support capabilities (including data bases and information processing); (4) strategic - tactical air service planning insights. The price element will consider the hourly rate of personnel in five major categories: (1) firm president; (2) principal analyst (project manager); (3) senior analyst (senior associate); (4) junior analyst (associates); and (5) clerical support. In making an award on a competitive basis, neither the price element nor the technical element shall be the sole criterion for selection.

Following Aviation Administration evaluation of these questionnaires, a firm will be selected on or about October 7, 1982 to handle the economic analysis element of the BWI Air Service Development Program on a contract basis. This contract will run for twenty-four (24) consecutive months. The two-year agreement is subject to approval by the Maryland Board of Public Works, and funding for the second year is contingent upon budget approval and a continuing appropriation of funding by the Maryland General Assembly. The draft contact document, and the General Conditions of the Maryland Department of Transportation, are available for your review as part of this competitive bid process.
