PUSH targets South Carolina firms

CHARLESTON, SC (UPI) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson, presiding over the 11th National Convention of his Chicago - based Operation PUSH, targeted South Carolina as the next state where blacks will demand a greater role in the marketplace.

"Our mission is not to boycott, but to trade," Jackson told several hundred delegates to the convention of PUSH — People United To Serve Humanity.

"But, we will exercise our right to negotiate, demonstrate, litigate and boycott," said Jackson, a native of Greenville, SC. "We want black lawyers, CPAs, and goods and services retrained."

Jackson targeted 11 South Carolina private companies and one state agency for special attention in the drive. Besides the South Carolina Budget and Control Board, Jackson named two financial institutions, two utilities, three supermarket chains and four beverage distributors.

The companies included South Carolina National Bank, South Carolina Federal Savings and Loan Association, Piggly - Wiggly, Winn - Dixie, Bi - Lo, Duke Power Co., South Carolina Electric & Gas Co., and the distributors of Miller and Budweiser beers and Pepsi - Cola and Coca - Cola.

Jackson said the state agency and private firms will be asked by telegram to release information on their employee levels and purchasing practices. Then he said, black leaders will meet with executives to try to negotiate increased black involvement in the targeted firms.

"What we're proposing should not be seen as a threat, but as therapy," Jackson said. "We're demaning a fair return on our investment. We want equity and parity."

The Rev. Frank Watkins, Jackson's Press Secretary, said PUSH "is not saying these are the worst companies."

"We picked the companies that were vulnerable in terms of black consumer power, or could be held accountable in the public domain via legal redress," Watkins said.

In his speech to the convention, Jackson said Operation PUSH will attempt to duplicate in South Carolina its success on a national scale with Coca - Cola and the Heublein Corp. He said PUSH recently signed trade agreements under which those corporations pledged to increase the level of black participation in their business.

1890 Program — Campers enjoy a balanced meal after a busy schedule.

1890 Camping Program

ORGANGEBURG, SC — The Orangeburg County 1890 Summer Camping Program is underway at Camp Harry Daniels in Ellloree, S.C. for youths enrolled in 1890 4-H Clubs. Youngsters between the ages of 9-16 from limited resources families in the county are taking part in a ten-day educational and recreational camping program which is conducted annually by South Carolina State College in cooperation with Clemson University Extension Services - United States Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The camping program is supported by the USDA Food and Nutrition Services Summer Feeding Program for children. Leon Chavous, director of Camp Daniels, sees this assistance as being a vital component in the survival of the camping program during these inflationary periods.

"Without assistance for USDA, children from needy families in this area would be unable to benefit from this camping experience," Chavous said.

In addition to funding this program, USDA also supplies menus and foods such as cheese and other dairy products. This enables campers to receive well-baleanced meals with the kinds and amounts of foods children need to help meet their nutrient and energy requirements.

Musical show highlights long history of Jazz

WINSTON - SALEM N.C. — In show business, before each performance, the word backstage is "break a leg". But Jeff Bullock is careful not to take the phrase literally.

This summer, when many college freshmen would be happy to serve hamburgers in a fast-food restaurant, Bullock is dancing his way through a 20-city touring production, presented by the North Carolina School of the Arts (NCSA) where he is a freshman.

He is a dancer in Jazz Is, a five-week national touring show on the history of jazz.

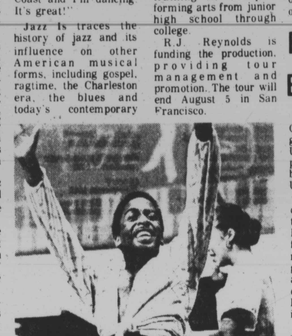
"I love to dance. I love jazz and the different time periods captured in the show make it fun," says an enthusiastic Bullock.

Although he has appeared in numerous other NCSA productions, including "The Nutcracker," "Concerto," and "Graduation Ball," he was one of six to handpicked to dance in the more than 40 performances in the school's first national tour. At 18, he's the youngest of the 23-member cast and crew, all NCSA students or alumni.

The Clinton, N.C. native, says "I'm getting a chance to travel and do what I like best — dancing. I'm getting to see the country, the West Coast and I'm dancing. It's great!"

Jazz Is traces the history of jazz and its influence on other American musical forms, including gospel, ragtime, the Charleston era, the blues and today's contemporary sound. The show is directed by its author, Duncan Noble, assistant dean of professional training in the performing arts from junior high school through college.

R.J. Reynolds is funding the production, providing tour management and promotion. The tour will end August 5 in San Francisco.



DANCE ON! — Jeff Bullock, 18, from Clinton, NC, helps trade the history of jazz through dance in the North Carolina School of the Arts production, Jazz Is.

Bussey promoted to Brigadier General

GREENSBORO, N.C. - Charles D. Bussey, a 1955 graduate of A&T State University, has been promoted to the rank of brigadier general in the U.S. Army.

Bussey, who was commissioned through the university's Army ROTC program, is the first A&T graduate to reach the rank of general. He has been assigned as deputy chief of public affairs for the Department of the Army in the Pentagon.

"I feel pretty good about this promotion," said Bussey in a telephone interview from his office. I owe this advancement to a lot of people including soldiers and officers who worked with me and for me. I have had excellent support over the years."

Bussey said that some of the career assignments given him helped prepare him for more responsibility. "Far into my career things opened up and I was getting challenging assignments," he said. "I then began to think it possible to reach the rank of a general officer."

A native of Washington, D.C. and graduate of Cardoza High School, Bussey completed his ROTC training at A&T as a distinguished military graduate and an honor graduate. He entered active duty at Fort Benning in June of 1955.

Bussey was recently deputy commander chief of staff of the 172nd Infantry Brigade in Alaska. He has also served as commander of the 2nd Brigade in Korea, and was battalion executive officer of the 25th Division in Korea. He was also a battalion commander of the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg.

Bussey holds a B.S. degree in English and business administration from A&T, a M.A. degree in journalism from Indiana University and a M.S. degree in communications science from Shippensburg State College. He is married to the former Eva Gray of Kokomo, Ind. The Busseys have three children and reside in Lanham, Md.

Eaddy. The Couple has 23 grand children and five great - grandchildren.

A native Columbian, James L. Solomon, Jr., has been named assistant director for Facilities and Planning of the South Carolina Commission on Higher Education.

He has served as coordinator of Facilities Planning since 1974 and was executive director of South Carolina's Higher Education Facilities Commission from 1973 to '74, when operations were transferred to the Commission on Higher Education.

Solomon was also appointed to fill an unexpired term to the Board of Commissioners of Richland School District No. 1 in 1975. He later was elected as chairman of the board from 1977 to 1980.

Solomon was recently one of the Democratic Primary winners for Richland County Council. He faces Republican candidates in November.

Otis Goodwin of Columbia has been appointed Postmaster at States Park, a Columbia Metro Suburban area. He is an eighteen year veteran postal employee. Goodwin started his career in 1964.

He is a graduate of Booker T. Washington High School and has completed courses through the Postal Employee Development Center. Goodwin has served as distribution clerk and window clerk in addition to performing other jobs for the U.S. Postal Service. Also he is the founder and leader of Otis Goodwin and the Rocking Castanettes, a band which plays popular music from the 50's.

Major Charles F. Balden, Jr. a NASA astronaunt from Columbia spoke in honor of his father, Charles Frank Balden, SR. who died of a heart attrack three years ago, at the annual University of South Carolina Upward Bound banquet.

Major Bolden's address capped the banquet program, which included the introduction of sucessful Upward Bound alumni and the presentation of a plaque honoring the late Charles Balden, Sr.

The elder Mr. Balden devoted ten years to Upward Bound, which is a program designed to help high school students succeed in higher education through intensive instruction in basic academic skills, career counseling and guidance. He also coached football, basketball and tennis at C.A. Johnson High from 1949 to 1970 when he was transferred to Keenan High as a councelor and athletic director.

Mr. Balden suffered a fatal heart attack while attending a football game between rivals Kennan and C.A. Johnson. The younger Balden is a Marine Corps Major eligible for pilot assignment on future space shuttle flights.

Mrs. Charles (Ethel Martin) F. Balden Sr. was also present for the Honoring of her late husband.

Thanks to the Raymond Boulwares for having invited us to their annual mid-summer social outing. The food was "scrumptious" and the live entertainment was great. It was good to see an old schoolmate, Melion Williams and family from New Jersey.

"King" Arthur Eppes is still giving of his melodious vocal chords in the area. He is Nat King Cole, Otis Redding, The Temptters, the Platters, Brook Benel, Ronald and many others, including Ray Charles, all wrapped up in one.

We have been out many evenings to hear the accompaniment himself on the piane delighting audiences at local louges and supper clubs.

While "King" Arthur is a native of North Carolina, he has lived in Columbia for the past 2½ years singing and playing music from the early 50's to present. Much success "King" Arthur Eppes!
