A new fashion star on the horizon?

Mary Fair, local Baltimore Mathematics teacher at Mergenthaler Vocational-Technical High School, has recently organized a fashion troupe and academy — Fair Fashion Fair. Some of the models (who are already trained) have joined her in the new venture and some who are involved Mary herself has trained.

The group, based at the Opportunity Industrialization Center (OIC), 1000 Valley St., will sponsor skin care and make-up clinics, though their main thrust is fashion show production, modeling instruction and aerobics. The trade name for their aerobics is Fair-obics.

The organization held a 'Skin care and Make-up' clinic Sunday, Aug. 1 at the Baltimore downtown Hilton Hotel. Fayette St., conducted by Ms. Debbie Haskins, an experienced model and licensed make-up artist.

The academy is also developing a magazine —Fair Fashion Fair— featuring beauty and fashion tips, with a section 'For Models Only' which will tell them how to get started in the field, and of course, fashions. August 15 is target date for publication.

Mary Fair feels that her outfit is unique in that it will hold periodic clinics on other aspects of being beautiful — hair, skin care and cardiovascular conditioning and weight loss through Fair - obics.

She states: "We want to start the model in the field as a beginning rather than as an ultimate end in the field, so they can learn how to make it on their own."

Mrs. Fair attended Patricia Stevens Moleing School in 1964, where she completed their modeling and finishing course.

She also modeled at Morgan State University where she got her B.S. Degree in Mathematics in 1969.

In addition, she taught modeling from 1974-1977 at Southern High Community School.

Mrs. Fair is married to Jerome Fair, operations instructor for the MTA Rapid Rail. They have three children—Jerome Jr. (8); Jamila (4) and Jelani (3).

She resides with her family in the 3300 block, Rolling Rd., Baltimore Co.

For further info on the new venture and participation call 922-5949.

MARY FAIR, who heads up Fair Fashion Fair, which is to be unique in that while its main thrust is fashion show production, it will also specialize in aerobics, skin care, make-up and weight loss, and preparing a model to go out on her own.

FAIR FASHION FAIR models, members of the new modeling troupe and academy recently organized in Baltimore are (l to r): Norkella Beckham, Kevin Green, Kim Brown, Earl Martin and Arnetta McNeill.

Farewell luncheon for SSA employee

By Marjorie R. Green

Approximately eighty persons attened the retirement luncheon given in honor of MRS. MARTHA E. JONES last Friday afternoon at the Holiday Inn, Belmont.

The guests arrived carrying an assortment of beautifully wrapped gifts for the honoree who choose a sheer lavender colored dress with a matching corsage for the occasion.

Included in the gifts was $200 donated by co-workers and friends and an autographed cloth scroll made by one of Mrs. Jones' granddaughters for presentation from the family.

The farewell luncheon, sponsored by co-workers in the Annex mailroom, marked the end to a Federal career that began almost twenty years ago with the General Services Administration (GSA).

Supervisors Dan Smith and Lenny Constantine along with Mrs. Eunice Chambers, Section Chief extended words of encouragement on behalf of the Mailroom management staff.

Kelsie Jones, the honoree's husband headed the list of family members that included three daughters; Mrs. Barbara Shearin, Mrs. Evelyn Johnson and Mrs. Brenda Chase; two granddaughters: Mrs. Tanya Clark and Miss Denise Johnson.

A member of the Faithful Few Club in Wayland Baptist Church, Mrs. Jones was born in Richmond, Va. under the Gamini sign. She likes to attend dinner shows and plans to do a lot of traveling during her retirement years.

Mrs. Amanda Sanders and Mrs. Sarah Chapman co-chaired the memorable luncheon.

Earl Collison retires

Salutations, gifts and best wishes were also extended to another mailroom retiree during the Friday afternoon festivities at the Holiday Inn, Belmont.

Earl Collison, veteran SSA employee of 39½ years turned in his building pass with high hopes of enjoying many years of a dull, fruitful retirement.
