CERT grants available for health care projects

The Chesapeake Education - Research Trust (CERT) is offering one year grants of $2,000. maximum for projects in education, research, or delivery related to health care.

CERT, a non-profit foundation, has been in existence since 1976 and the Board of Directors is composed of leaders in the medical and business fields.

The CERT grants are available to non-profit organizations in and around the Greater Baltimore Area. The proposed health care projects are to be used within a community or hospital setting. Unfunded projects (seed grants) or those that may have potential sources or require additional funding are acceptible for consideration.

Grant applications can be obtained from Robert M. McGuire Secretary-Treasurer, P. O. Box 9048, Baltimore, Maryland, 21222, or by calling 285-8000. September 15, 1983 is the deadline for submitting requests for applications.

All project proposals will be acknowledged and the announcement of awards will be in November, 1983.

CERT was established as a repository for monetary gifts and grants for education and research in the health care field by the Chesapeake Physicians Professional Association (CPPA). This non-profit medical group all hold faculty appointments at the Johns Hopkins University of Medicine and provide patient care, teaching, and research at the Baltimore City Hospitals. The CPPA is celebrating its eleventh anniversary this year and has been cited as a model for academic-medical center in this country.

CERT has been involved in sponsoring education conferences for all levels of health care professionals since its inception.

Some of CERT's activities have included sponsoring an international conference focusing on trends in academic medicine in the 1980s; a seminar on the employer's role in providing health care maintenance (HMO) as an alternative health care system for employees; and a conference on issues of concern for students and professionals in various health care positions.

Parents should check kids'

Parents with children enrolling in school are urged to check their children's immunization records for compliance with State regulations, according to City Commissioner of Health, Dr. John D Be Hoff.

Students must be immunized against diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, polio, measles and German measles (rubella). By six years of age, children are required to have the final DIP (diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis) and polio vaccines for full protection.

"If a child does not have the required immunizations, the parent should contact the child's doctor, neighborhood health center or clinic, or the Baltimore City Health Department, stressed Dr. De Hoff.

The department offers free immunization clinics throughout the year and special sessions in August, September and October. Effective July 1, the schedule is as follows:

Eastern Health District, 620 N. Caroline Street, July 19, 12-3 p.m., August 23, 31, 12-3 p.m., September 27, 12-3 p.m., October 11, 12-7:30 p.m. and October 25, 12-3 p.m.

For more information on immunizations, contact the Baltimore City Health Department at 396-4454.

Taking into consideration the rapidly changing technology of the field Gibson said it is too late "to go back and start over" with the cable process, and hopefully something will be decided before October.

If Caltec had played its cards right and made a reasonable and obtainable settlement with Cox, it would have become part of the fourth largest cable TV company in America. But now that it has decided to go north with its merger, it will push Comcast into the league of 16th largest.

Neither of the attorneys were willing to reveal ball park figures with respect to the Caltec offer, they merely said "it was a lot."

POLITICS '83

5 In 5 back Du, Douglass

Mayor William Schaefer, City Council President Clarence Du Burns, and state Rep. John Douglass (D-45) were endorsed by the 5 In 5 Democratic Organization, along with seven councilmanic candidates in the fourth, fifth and sixth districts. Schaefer and Burns are seeking to extend their incumbencies; Douglass is campaigning to oust comptroller Hyman Pressman.

Also winning 5 In 5 backing are; Iris Reeves, Tony Robinson and Rochelle "Rikki" Spector in the fifth district; Madeline Murphy in the sixth; and Michael Mitchell, Kweisi Mfume and Agnes Welch in the fourth.

4th District's FDDO backs Mayor, 'Du,' Douglass

Del. Howard "Pete" Rawlings (D-40) said he will have "no part of" the Fourth District Democratic Organization's decision to back Mayor William Schaefer's campaign for re-election.

Rawlings, who is on the organization's executive board, said the group has turned down a superior choice in challenger William H. Murphy, Jr. to endorse the incumbent. Rawlings added that the Political climate and voter demographics in Baltimore could support a black mayoral bid.

The Westsider said that black economic development usually expands under black mayors, and that such a circumstance would be welcome here.

"The numbers show he can win," Rawlings said of Murphy.

The organization also backed Clarence Du Burns for president of the City Council, and John Douglass for Comptroller, and Kweisi Mfume, Michael Mitchell and Agnes Welch for fourth district councilperson seats.

PROMOTED TO MAJORS—District Commander John A. Barnes (left) and District Commander Joseph W. Nixon, were both promoted to major. Major Nixon will remain at Eastern District and Major Barnes will remain at Southern District.

BBB seeks volunteer judges

The Better Business Bureau is expanding its pool of community arbitrators who will be trained to hold hearings and make final decisions in consumer-business disputes.

The BBB conducts an arbitration program, in which a customer and business may settle a dispute by taking it before a community volunteer, who holds an informal hearing and then makes a final, legally-binding decision on the dispute.

"The credibility of this entire program," said Richard F. Hogan, Director of Operations, "depends on drawing volunteers from all segments of the community.

"We want public spirited people who can make equitable decisions. No special background is necessary. Our arbitrators do not have to have technical advisors who are available to provide assistance when needed."

Concluded Hogan; "Virtually anyone who has raised two children has arbitrated disputes of one type or another over the years." Training sessions will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 24 and Sept. 21, 1983 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Persons interested in volunteering their time should contact Trish at 685-1059 for more information.

New animal shelter to open

A ground breaking ceremony with Mayor Schaefer was held at the site for the new Animal Shelter, 301 Stockholm Street in south Baltimore at 10:30 a.m. Aug. 15.

The new shelter will occupy 21,683 square feet on 3.5 acres on the north shore of Middle Branch of Patapsco River. Construction of the new shelter will cost $1,950,000 with completion projected for the end of 1984 or early 1985.

The bidding process has been completed but has not yet been awarded by the City's Bureau of Construction Management, Department of Public Works.

The City Health Department is looking forward to a larger, more effectively designed Animal Shelter, according to Dr. John B. De Hoff, City Commissioner of Health. The present shelter at 222 N. Calverton Road was built in the early 1930's.

The new site will have a daily capacity for 250 animals. The facility will be entirely enclosed so animals will not be subjected to the excessive cold months and heat waves.

"Overall, the new shelter will provide us with sufficient space for the humane care of animals," stated Dr. De Hoff.

The entire Bureau of Animal Control, which is responsible for Animal Shelter operations, animal investigations and enforcement, and animal collections, will be housed at the new shelter.

Increase for boat registration

The Department of Natural Resources reminded boat owners that annual registration fees, including renewals, are now $12. The price was increased July 1, 1983, in accordance with a new law.

Also, DNR's Licensing and Consumer Services unit said a misunderstanding has arisen over who must obtain $50 oyster harvesting licenses. Anyone taking part in oyster harvesting by diving, tonging (hand or patent), or handscraping is required to have a license, not just the captain or owner of the vessel involved.

In dredge boat or skipjack operations, the skipper is still the only one needing a $250 license.

Concerning the boost in the boat registration fee, DNR officials pointed out that the additional revenue raised will be used lace aging vessels and equipment of the Natural Resources Police.

$25.3 Million in Alcohol, Tobacco Taxes sent to Subd aryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City have received $25,324,533 in alcohol and tobacco tax revenues for Fiscal Year 1983, which ended June 30, 1983.

Checks totaling $6,495,031 have just been mailed to the subdivisions as their share of alcohol and tobacco tax revenues for the final quarter of Fiscal Year 1983 (April, May and June, 1983).

"The $25.3 million shared with the subdivisions is 2.1% less than the $25.9 million returned during the previous fiscal year, and reflects nationwide trends in alcohol and tobacco tax revenue.

These revenues have been affected by the economy and by increased federal cigarette taxes during the past year, Goldstein said.

Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City receive approximately one-third of the $1.50 per gallon tax on distilled spirits and approximately one-half of the nine cents per gallon beer tax, based on the number of gallons delivered to licensed retailers within the subdivisions.

The local governments also receive three cents of the 13 cents per pack tax on cigarettes, based on population.

For the year ending June 30, 1983, the 23 counties and Baltimore City received $15,582,487 in cigarette tax revenue, or 2.3% less than the previous year. The subdivisions also received $5,177,881 in distilled spirits tax receipts, a decline of 4%, and $4,564,165 in beer tax revenue, a decline of 1.3%.

The subdivisions receiving the largest distribution of alcohol and tobacco tax revenues for Fiscal Year 1983 include Baltimore City, which received $5,569,238; Prince George's County, which received $3847,235; Baltimore County, which received $3,792,846; Montgomery County, which received $2,881,720; and Anne Arundel County, which received $2,247,149.

ABOUT BLACK ADOPTIONS:

Q. But haven't blacks always adopted informally?

A. Yes! Because blacks were generally not served by the formal agency adoption programs, the black community developed an informal system to meet the needs of their dependent children. In these informal adoptions, a family simply took on the parental role and responsibility for a relatives' or friends' child or children.

Q. What are the benefits of a formal adoption?

A. In a formal adoption the adopting family assumes all of the legal rights and responsibilities of the birth parents. The child is assured the security and stability of a loving permanent home. In many instances, adoption assistance payments are available to enable the adoptive parents to care for the child.

Q. Is it true that black people do not adopt?

A. Emphatically no! The capacity of black families to provide care for dependent black children is both traditional and current. The Urban League found the 90 percent of black adoptions have been accomplished through informal adoption. The problem has not been a lack of black response to the needs of homeless black children, but the inability of agencies to utilize the resources available in the black community.

Q. Whay are black children sometimes considered "hard to place"?

A. Black children acquired this label because for many years child welfare agencies did not actively seek adoptive parents for waiting black children. Historically adoption agencies and programs were designed to meet the needs of childless white couples, mostly with middle or upper level incomes. Programs and policies were developed to serve the clientele, while older, handicapped and minority children were left in foster care. In recent years, many agencies have changed their programs and reach out to find families in the black community.

Q. Is it difficult for blacks to adopt?

A. In the past years many black families encountered problems in adopting due to expensive fees, unrealistics requirements and criteria, which excluded applicants based on age, marital status and lifestyle, agency location, long waiting periods and paperwork. Today, many agencies have modified their policies some have hired black adoption workers and developed special outreach programs which incorporate the culture values and social circumstances of black families in their practices and procedures. All of these changes mean it is much easier now to adopt Black children.

Q. How do I get started in adoption?

A. Talk with parents who have already adopted to find out more about the adoption process and waiting black children. Then contact a licensed adoption agency and inquire about their program. You will need a home study done by a social worker. This procedure gives you an opportunity to learn more about adoption, assess your parenting capabilities and decide if adoption is right for you. Black Adoptive Parents can help put you in touch with other adoption resources.

IN MEMORIAM

OWENS - In loving memory of my dear wife, HAZEL M. OWENS, who passed away August 17, 1967, which has been sixteen long years ago:

Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break but all in vain.
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this, they wipe out never.
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.

Loving Husband, HARRISON OWENS
