Gooden's 16 gave him 251 and still going. With 18 games remaining on the Mets' schedule, Dwight should be able to expect at least three more starts. One of these could come Sunday against the division-leading Cubs in Chicago.

Court KO's Holmes-Coetzee

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A federal judge in Philadelphia has dealt a blow to heavyweight champion Larry Holmes' plans to fight South African Gerry Coetzee.

Holmes, the International Boxing Federation title holder, had signed a contract in July with veteran promoter Don King that he hoped would allow him to schedule a bout with Coetzee in November or December.

But U.S. District Judge Daniel H. Huyett III ruled Monday that promoter Richard Hirschfeld of Virginia Beach, Va., has a prior valid contract with Holmes that entitles Hirschfeld to promote the event if he can match King's offer.

Coetzee is the World Boxing Association heavyweight champion.

Holmes claimed Hirschfeld, a lawyer, duped him into signing a "right of first refusal" contract last Oct. 20 in return for a $50,000 payment the boxer tried to return Dec. 1.

With only a seventh-grade education, the champion said he was ill-equipped to understand the implications of the one-page contract that Hirschfeld read aloud to him.

On the same day, he signed the contract, Holmes agreed to take the $110,000-a-year position as co-chairman with Muhammad Ali of Hirschfeld's Champion Sports Management, Inc., a newly formed enterprise to train young boxers.

Huyett said Holmes "is not naive with respect to business matters, but rather is a relatively sophisticated individual who admits that he prides himself on conducting his own business affairs."

The judge added Holmes had been involved in negotiations for 45 professional fights and "is capable of understanding contracts of the type at issue in this case."

Ex-Morganite tennis pro

HAVERFORD, Pa. — Baltimorean Ann Koger, head coach of women's tennis and volleyball at Haverford College, has been certified as a member of the United States Professional Tennis Association, the world's largest and oldest association of tennis teaching professionals.

Koger formed Haverford's first tennis and volleyball teams in the 1981-82 college year. Last spring, her tennis squad had a 12-3 overall record. Koger's top player, sophomore Patty Dinella of Princeton, N.J., was honored with the Wheelan & Wheelan Award as the leading intercollegiate women's tennis player in the Philadelphia area.

Koger, a 1972 Morgan State graduate, was a four-year letter winner in women's basketball, field hockey and volleyball, and men's tennis. She and her Morgan State teammate Bonnie Logan of Baltimore, were the first black women to participate in a major national collegiate tennis tournament representing a black college.

Olympics for tots

SPORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — Department store officials say they plan to go on with the "Baby Olympics" -- featuring such events as the 3-yard crawl - despite a protest from the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The committee claims Jordan Marsh is illegally using the word "Olympics" but store officials say it is too late to change the name of the event, set for Saturday.

In the competition, toddlers between 6 and 18 months will be squaring off in events called knock the blocks, the 3-yard crawl and the 5-yard toddle.

Five heats of each event will be held in a cleared-out corner of the children's department. The winner of each heat will then compete in the finals.

Valerie Brisco-Hooks, winner of three gold medals in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles, added a gold and silver to her collection over the weekend.

The speedy mother won the 100 and ran second in the 200 in an international meet at London.

Redskins picked

Despite successive losses in their first two games, the Washington Redskins are 6-point picks by oddsmakers over the New York Giants Sunday at RFK.

The Indianapolis (nee Baltimore) Colts are similar 6-point underdogs at home against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bears aim for strong BU effort

BOSTON — Despite the fact Boston University is regarded a prohibitive favorite over Morgan State in Saturday's game here, the Bears arrived from Baltimore wearing a determined look and a hopeful attitude.

"We've worked hard this week," declared coach Jim Phillips, "and we think we've ironed out some of last week's mistakes."

Those mistakes resulted in a 31-14 loss to Texas Southern at Hughes Stadium.

And "ironing out" figures to be a man-sized task when Boston University's 16-9 victory over Grambling and Morgan's defeat are put together.

Grambling's defense was riddled by the passing arm of quarterback Pat Mancini -- 2 touchdowns, one an 83-yard bomb -- and 256 yards.

Meanwhile, the Bears were being humbled also by a quarterback. Hampton's Johnny Cole hit 13 of 21 passes, three for touchdowns, and finished the afternoon with 272 yards in completions.

New Colts move lures faithful

Late month Orioles alumni returned to Memorial Stadium to mark the anniversary of the team's beginning here 30 years ago.

Wednesday afternoon old Colts and longtime followers gathered at a downtown hotel to implement the beginning of a new pro football presence here.

The plan to return the game to the city that was deserted last March, is being pushed by a group known as Baltimore Football Associates. It is headed by astute business man Robert Merrick.

Wednesday's luncheon was in the form of an Advertising Club salute to BFA. It also was designed to show support for a drive to sell season tickets that will convince the NFL Baltimore wants and deserves a replacement for the team which deserted.

Among former Baltimore Colts associates present were ex-general manager Ernie Accorsi, public relations personnel Walt Gutowski, Lenny Moore and Marge Blatt; players Tom Matte and Jim Mutscheller, and Steve Rosenbloom, son of former owner Carroll Rosenbloom.

Evidence of reasonable early success in the ticket drive is indicated in the confirmed sale of an estimated 22,000 seasons...LACY.

Bullets' second draft choice to play in Europe

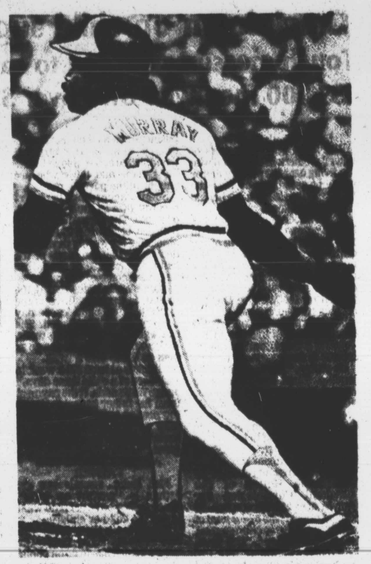
LANDOVER, MD. —Tony Costner, a second round draft choice of the Washington Bullets, has opted to play in Europe this season, the NBA team reported last week.

The 6-foot-10 Costner played on the Bullets summer league team that competed in the Princeton Summer League tournament. At Princeton Costner averaged 7.8 rebounds in five games.

While at St. Joseph's (PA), where he played collegiately, Costner started a school record 120 straight games and was the Hawk's leading scorer with 1,730 career points.

Meanwhile, it was announced that the Friday, April 12 game against the Pistons in Detroit has been re-scheduled to Sunday, January 27 at Detroit. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

According to a spokesperson with the Pistons, the game was changed to avoid a possible arena scheduling conflict.



STOPPED TO WALK — Eddie Murray was finally stopped after setting an Orioles' consecutive-game hitting record -- stopped mainly by walks. The Birds' first baseman, conceded by opposing managers to be the American League's most feared hitter, was granted bases on balls six times in his last 14 at bats. Still he holds a .324 batting average with 27 homers and 108 runs batted in. The O's head for Milwaukee today for games Friday night and Saturday and Sunday afternoons; then to New York before returning for a 3-buck night game against the Red Sox at the stadium.

Peete, Thorpe, Elder Sifford in golf news

Calvin Peete, having showed perceptibly since his early spring play, appears to be regaining form for his customary fall assault on the pro golf tour.

The slender perfectionist led last week's Boston Bank Classic in the second round but faded over the last 36 holes. He did, however, move up on the list of year's top earners.

Calvin is 24th place (up from 37th) with 1984 winnings of $159,412.

Jim Thorpe is 43rd in earnings at $130,418.

Meanwhile, Lee Elder is kicking his heels in his role as new Kid on the block of the PGA Seniors Tour.

The Englishish Washingtonian finished second to winner Dan Sikes, beaten by one stroke, in the United Virginia Bank Seniors tournament at Richmond. He collected $18,000.
