The Living Church

Rev. Olin P. Moyd

Newly elected head of United Baptist Missionary Convention

By Rosalyn M. Hamlett
Religion Editor

Rev. Olin P. Moyd, Ph.D., was elected president of the United Baptist Missionary Convention and Auxiliaries Inc. at the Sixtieth Annual Session, Tuesday, May 20.

Rev. Moyd, pastor of the Mount Lebanon Baptist Church succeeded Rev. Lorenzo Graves, of Calvary Baptist Church, who had held the post for the past four years.

The United Baptist Missionary Convention, which is comprised of 100 black Baptist Churches, has a membership numbered at 100,000, making it the largest body of black Christians in Maryland.

Rev. Moyd declared, "We will not only be engaged in binding the wounds of those who have been wounded on the road to Jericho, we want to address the problems that have caused the wounds."

According to Rev. Moyd, the thrust of his administration will be three-fold, emphasizing proclamation, education and application. Proclamation will involve intensified efforts by the Convention to move forward and proclaim the good news of Jesus Christ.

"Education will be emphasized also. There is a need for people to understand what they are hearing in church on Sundays. Christian education will be intensified in all of our churches.

"My hope is that every church will have a progressive religious training program. The Congress of Christian Education will play a vital role in educating the people in the pew.

"Application is the idea that Christians will begin to live out the gospel in their everyday lives. Jesus not only taught, but he ministered as well, so caring, sharing and all kinds of services will be provided."

Rev. Moyd has been pastor of Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church for 12 years. He is a recipient of many honors and awards. Rev. Moyd attended Temple Theological College, Morgan State University and the Howard University Divinity School, where he graduated cum laude.

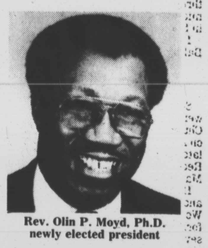

He is the author of "Redemption in Black Theology" and has traveled to such places as Africa, Rome, Switzerland, Puerto Rico, Barbados, Jordan, Israel and Egypt.

Rev. Moyd also conducts a family radio ministry and Open Line to the Good News each Saturday 10-10:30 a.m. on WANN 1190 AM.

He served as the first president of United Baptist Missionary Convention up until the recent election.

Next year's convention is scheduled to be held at Perkins Square Baptist Church, where Rev. Richard Ogle, IV is the pastor. The church is located on Edmondson Ave.

The next scheduled quarterly meeting is slated for the fourth Thursday in July.

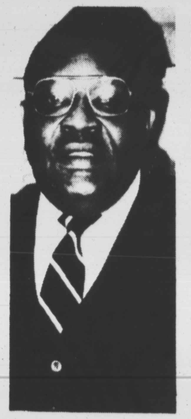

Rev. Olin P. Moyd, Ph.D.

The Women's Guild of Trinity Baptist Church recently held a Heritage Luncheon at the Belvedere Hotel, honoring those women of the church, who head 2 or more generations of active Trinitarians.

Calvary Baptist Church 65 years old, Pastor Graves has served 28 years

Rev. Lorenzo Graves

Rev. Lorenzo Graves, Jr., who was called to the patorate of Calvary Baptist Church in 1958, celebrated his 28th Anniversary Sunday, May 25 at Martins West. The occasion also marked Calvary's 65th anniversary.

Rev. Graves, former president of the United Baptist Missionary Convention, instituted many new programs and effected the organization or re-organization of many auxiliaries.

Under his guidance, Calvary moved to its present location, at 3911 Garrison Boulevard, in April of 1968.

While serving as president of the United Baptist Missionary Convention, the first steps were taken toward the formation of the Laymen's League, which is an institution designed to train men and women in the service of their church.

Also during his tenure, a parcel of land was purchased and paid for. This land will be the future building site for the new Baptist Center.

Rev. Graves' ministry at Calvary is realized through witness, missions and evangilism, the Monthly Prayer Fellowships, Auxiliary Day, the Day Nursery, the Nursery, the Mission Exchange and the Summer Program, all established for education, edification, development and out-reach.

"Our spiritual marriage was made in heaven and what God has joined has not been put asunder. I have no regrets, we have all wrought well.

"Thank God for the super abundance of His grace. Thank you for His enabling grace. We have come a long way, haven't we? Oh yes!. Who did it? The Lord Jesus did it, using the Calvary Baptist Church," declared Rev. Graves in a message to Calvary Baptist.

In the Christian community outside of Calvary Baptist, Rev. Graves has held various offices in the United Baptist Missionary Convention and auxiliaries of Maryland.

On May 18, 1982, he was unanimously elected president of that body and assumed the responsibility of the leadership of the largest black Baptist organization in the state of Maryland, with membership of over a hundred churches.

As president, he worked to advance the cause of Christ and further His Kingdom. He has ordained over 60 ministers, most of whom are now pastoring.

Rev. Graves is the recipient of two doctorate degrees. He attended United Christian College in 1975 and the Virginia Seminary and College in 1981.

Rev. Graves continues to take advantage of opportunities to study, expand Christian experiences, promote spiritual growth and edify the church body.

Rev. Graves stated, "As we celebrate '65 years of continuous striving for Christian excellence, our goals are excellence in love, unity, missions, witnessing, teaching and evangelism.

"We commit ourselves anew to the words of the Apostle Paul in Phillipians: " ... Forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth to those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prizes of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Bethel women raise $41,500 for Women's Day '86

Saturday, May 25, the Women of Bethel A.M.E. Church continued a 200 plus year-old tradition of extending their hands across the church and out into the streets to help the poor, the hungry, the homeless, the alarmingly increasing number of pregnant teenagers and many, many other troubled individuals and families who need comfort and succor.

It is ironic indeed that Bethel scheduled its Annual Women's Day Celebration on the very same day that millions of Americans received their first baptism in spirituality and giving participating in the "Hands Across America" media event which was designed to raise money to feed the hungry.

While no one really knows how much of the money raised through "Hands across America" will actually reach the poor and hungry after being gobbled up by monstrously huge administrative costs and expenses ($18 million dollars alone was spent to publicize the event). It is an accepted fact, a reality that the $41,500 raised by the Women of Bethel this past Sunday, will be used in a variety of ways to further the works of the church's on-going projects to help those who need help the most.

In other words, raising money to help those caught up in the clutches of desperation is business as usual at Bethel AME Church.

The outreach programs of Bethel, the church with the heart in the heart of the City, are many and meaningful, and the $41,500 collected during this woman's day will go a long way to insure their perpetuation.

This money will extend a hand to the ministering of the poor, hungry and financially strapped people who come through the Bethel Outreach Center daily.

It will lend a hand to the Teen Parenting Enrichment Program which reaches out to troubled teens whose difficulties lead them to depression.

Bethel further extends a hand across Baltimore through the Women's Resource and Development Center which provides counseling to women about how to complete their education, deal with marital problems, raising their children, or simply how to find the inner strength to cope with life's daily pressures.

Take a look across the street from the church and you will also see the fine work of the Bethel Christian School educating the young and rejuvenating the old. Women's Day 86 will insure the progress of these very worthwhile projects.

Guiding the Women of Bethel to the culmination of Women's Day activities, Evangelist Emma Creamer came to Bethel from the Mother Church of God in Christ of Wilmington, Del., with a pure, holy ghost inspired and spiritually filled message.

Maintaining the high spirit that had been generated in the church throughout the day, Evangelist Creamer rendered a fire and spiritfilled sermon that evoked continuous and thunderous chorus' of amens.

The day was also filled with inspiring events. Bethel overflowed with joy and gave a standing ovation to Mrs. Amy Richardson, the 100-year-old honoree from Howard County as she strolled down the aisle to add her contribution to the collection plate.

Another wave of emotion swept through the church as Mother Edith Bryant, who suffered a major stroke this year, walked down the aisle unaided to place her contribution (the amount all women of the church were asked to give) with the other donations that ultimately totalled $41,500.

Other highlights of the day included the performance of the Bethel Women's Day Choir under the leadership of Mrs. Dottie Crockett, and the musical direction of Charles Watson (one of Baltimore's Best), two musically gifted individuals.

The Successful Bethel Woman's Day activities were coordinated by the Women's Day Cabinet which was chaired by Mrs. Jeanette Sykes Atkins and included the following members: Mrs. Yvonne Davis Robinson, Mrs. Patricia Riley, Miss Dionne Riley, Dyane Owens, Syrina Coleman, Mrs. Sylvia Moore, Joanne Ransome, Inetha Johnson, Linda Ellard, Helen Hutchins, Faye Smith, Mrs. Dottie Crockett, Millie Bradshaw, Gerldine Alston, Patricia Witherspoon and Beverly J. Douglass.

D.C., Baltimore gospel music competition sites announced

Four churches in Washington and Baltimore have been chosen as the sites for preliminary auditions in the fourth annual Kentucky Fried Chicken Gospel Music Competition. The deadline for entries was May 25.

The audition concerts are free and give the general public and the competition judges an opportunity to hear and see the semifinalists, the sponsors said. The judges panel is headed by Archie Buffkins, president of the National Committee on Cultural Diversity, John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

Preliminary auditions will be held in Baltimore on Tuesday, June 10, at Gillis Memorial, 4016 Park Heights Avenue, and on Wednesday, June 11, at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, 1501 E. Oliver Street. St. Francis Xavier, the nation's first black Catholic parish, dates back to 1793 when newly arrived blacks — some slave and some free — formed the early eucharistic community that later became known as the Parish of St. Francis Xavier.

Preliminary auditions in Washington are scheduled for Tuesday, June 17, at Union Wesley A.M.E. Zion Church, 1860 Michigan Avenue, NE, and Wednesday, June 18, at Rehoboth Baptist Church, 621 Alabama Avenue, SE.

The preliminary auditions are held to narrow the field to two finalists in each of four categories: choir, ensemble, female soloist and male soloist.

These eight entrants will perform during the competition finale on Sunday, July 13, at The Kennedy Center. Churches sponsoring the winning entrants will share a total of $9,000 in cash donations contributed by Kentucky Fried Chicken.

The competition has been open to any church-sponsored singer or group from the following areas: Washington and the Virginia counties of Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax and City of Fairfax, Fauquier, Loudon and Prince William; Baltimore and the Maryland counties of Anne Arundel, Calvert, Carroll, Charles, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince Georges and St. Mary's.

The Gospel Music Competition is part of the new Kentucky Fried Chicken National Gospel Music Series, which includes competitions in Washington/Baltimore, Detroit, Philadelphia and Atlanta, major concerts in Louisville, Ky., and Chicago.
