Brown is proud to direct 'good shows.'

By Frank Lovece

Director Georg Stanford Brown is no longer a rookie. He hasn't been for years. After he gained prominence playing novice cop Terry Webster in "The Rookies" (1972-76), Brown started channeling his talents elsewhere. He's since directed countless episodes of "Hill Street Blues," "Miami Vice," "Dynasty" and "Lou Grant," winning two Emmy nominations and becoming one of TV's top directors.

"Parting Shots," this week's cliffhanging episode of "Cagney & Lacey," will mark Brown's fifth time directing that series. Even though his wife, Tyne Daly, is one of the stars, and even Brown has long since proven himself, he admits he still is "nervous about directing. As soon as you say 'cut,' you have all sorts of questions: Should I have done this or that? That kind of energy is a nervous energy, but," he adds, "it's also, I'm happy to say, a very exciting energy."

George Sanford Brown

Brown's voice is a rich, easy baritone. "I set out to be an actor," he says, "and there is a longing. Until recently, it's been very difficult for me to call myself a director. But I've found it satisfying, and it feeds me emotionally and artistically; I would hate to think I would lose all sense of self and purpose if I were not permitted to act."

Brown still gets the chance to act occasionally, most recently in the miniseries "North and South." Yet the 42-year-old Brown, who studied at the American Musical and Dramatic Academy before graduating to New York City's Shakespeare Festival and eventual success in episodic TV, says that, "In the mass media, the representation of people of color has not been great.

"It's frustrating," he continues, "to be any kind of minority in this country, because every day you're constantly reminded that you do not fit the picture. It's easier for me than others; celebrity gives you a little edge. But watching television gets really repulsive at times. It's hard to accept that you can make a picture that takes place in Los Angeles that does not include, even in the background, a sample of the 51 percent Latino population there! When you exclude them," he adds, "you're giving a lie.

"With the good shows, you can always question this, and there is a concerted effort on the part of some producers to change this attitude. One of the blessings of directing," he says, "is that I've gotten to do some of those good shows."

Checking facts on 'Hospital' star Reilly

SOAP OPERA WEEK

By Kimberly Redmond

Q: I've fallen in love with John Reilly, the actor who plays spy-turned-businessman Sean Donely on "General Hospital." Please tell me about him. — L.M., El Paso, Texas.

A: Reilly, who grew up in Chicago, married while in college and later divorced. He was single for 15 years before he married his current wife, Liz. They have shared the upbringing of her two daughters and his two daughters from their previous marriages. two of the girls are already actresses: One is a model, and the youngest has also shown interest in show business. In the early '70s, Reilly starred as Dan Stewart on the CBS soap "As the World Turns." When he's not working, he likes to spend time with his wife and family. He works out every day, likes to swim, play tennis and read mystery novels — spy stories, of course.

Q: I missed some of the "Guiding Light" episodes that aired in 1983, and I never found out what happened to Alan Spaulding's wife, Hope, and their son, Alan Michael. Can you fill me in? — L.B., Jamestown, N.Y.

A: Unable to deal with Alan's philandering ways (Alan was played by Chris Bernau), Hope (who was played by Elvera Roussel) divorced him and moved with their son to New York City. About three years ago, Spaulding was left to defend himself against some restless natives who stormed a jungle airplane runway while his pals escaped in a plane. He was never heard from again.

Q. I know that John Wesley Shipp was killed off in "As The world Turns" recently, but I'd still like to know if he was on another soap prior to "ATWT." If so, who did he play?—D. M. Sullivan, Ill.

A. Shipp portrayed the role of Kelly Nelson on "The Guiding Light" for several years. He then left for Hollywood, returning to daytime to portray Douglas Cummings on "ATWT."

Q. I've been a fan of Duane Witherspoon for a long time. He makes me whirl! What can you tell me about him?—K. M., Edmonton, Canada.

A. Witherspoon made his daytime television debut as Joe Perkins, a character he created on "Santa Barbara." The actor was written off the soap after less than a year. Several months passed before he reappeared on the small screen in his current role of Tyler McCandless on "Capitol."

Q. Can you tell me whatever happened to Ann Flood, the actress who portrayed Nancy Kerr on "The Edge of Night?"—L. T., Athens, Ala.

A. The actress hasn't resurfaced on any daytime dramas since "Edge" was cancelled. She recently guest starred on an episode of the hit NBC series "The Cosby Show."

Q. I've been watching reruns of "Dynasty," and I saw Wayne Northrup in several episodes. I'd like to know if he portrayed Blake's chauffeur, Michael, before or after he appeared as Roman Brady on "Days of Our Lives."—A. B., Jamestown, N.Y.

A. Northrup appeared on "Dynasty" during the nighttime soap's first season (1981). He joined the NBC soap about a year after his "Dynasty" role ended. The actor is currently looking for work in feature films, and he still refuses to return to "Days," even though he's been asked to reprise his role several times.

I recently learned that the proceeds from "Days of Our Lives" Star Gloria Loring's new album go to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Can you tell me how I can get a copy?—J. L., Moreauville, La.

Miss Loring's album, "A Shot in the Dark," is available through mail order only. You can get a copy of the record by sending a minimum donation of $10 to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. The cassette tape can be bought for a minimum donation of $12. Checks should be made out to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation and sent to: Gloria Loring Album, c/o "Days of Our Lives," 3000 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, CA 91523.
