Gov. Harry R. Hughes

By Racine S. Winborne

Harry R. Hughes

The troubles of Harry.

Polls have him running a distant third behind Representatives Michael Barnes and Barbara Mikulski.

But Harry R. Hughes, governor of Maryland, keep plodding along like a determined turtle, passed by the hare but till believing he will reach the finish line first.

Despite what all the polls have declared, the governor, who says he doesn't discount them if they're done correctly, is betting that momentum for his candidacy for the Democratic nomination in the U.S. Senate race will slip into high gear in the 10 days prior to the Sept. 9 Democratic primary election.

A somewhat similar scenario was played out eight years ago when this low-key, and sometimes quiet-spoken, tall politician from the Eastern Shore shocked the pundits by walking off with the governor's race. The polls showed him trailing almost to the end.

"They are a snapshot of what people are thinking at the time people are taking them. People for the most part are not going to decide whom they're going to vote for until 10 days before the election.

"Eight years ago in the last two weeks it changed radically. I was in much worse trouble in the polls leading up to the election 10 days ago."

What kinds of questions do they ask on these polls?

"Do you blame Gov. Hughes for the savings and loan crisis? Would you be less likely to vote for Gov. Hughes because of the savings and loan crisis? Whom would you vote for? That seems to taint things."

Do you think your laid-back approach is hurting your cam-

Police officer is robbed while on the Forest Pk. golf course

. . . that was a mistake, two suspects arrested

By Rosalyn M. Hamlett
AFRO Staff Writer

Golfing may be hazardous to your health. At least this was the case for Police Major Marcellus Boles when in the middle of his swing, he was held up by two robbers on the fifth fairway.

Major Boles, commander of the Baltimore Police Department's Western District was robbed when two teenagers put a gun to the back of his head Sunday.

"They were not aware they were robbing a policeman, said Major Boles.

Undaunted, the commander returned to the course Tuesday with two other police officials for another round of golf, when they ended up arresting two youths who had attempted to rob another group of golfers at gunpoint that same day.

Seeing this, the three officials pursued the robbers in their golf cart until the robbers went through an opening in the fence which lead into the Village of Purnell, an adjacent apartment complex.

According to golf course officials, they have asked Village of Purnell to repair this fence and although there have been no incidents recently, many people from the apartments use the opening in the fence as a shortcut to Liberty Heights Ave.

But personnel at the Gorn Management Company, owner of Village of Purnell stated that they have repaired the fence repeatedly but it has always been vandalized again.

Residents of the apartments disagreed and said the fence has always been in this condition for many years.

After the robbers ducked through the fence, the police officials continued the chase on foot and arrested one suspect inside the apartment and the other outside the building.

Major Boles observed that it is very difficult to be the victim. "I've had things taken from my car, but this was the first time that someone ever pointed a gun at me. I tried to remain calm, but it was very devastating," he said.

Arrested in the case was Joel Cooper, an 18-year-old resident of the 2700 block of Gatehouse Dr. in the Village of Purnell who was charged with two counts of armed robbery, three counts of using a handgun in the commission of a crime and three deadly weapon charges. His bail was set at $25,000.

Also, a 14-year-old juvenile has been placed in the Charles Hickey Training Center pending a hearing.

As for Major Boles, he said he will continue to practice his golf game at the Forest Park

Anatomy of a drug raid. events leading to a 'bust'

By Rosalyn M. Hamlett

William "Major" McGlocklin, alleged narcotics dealer is on trial today in the Baltimore City Circuit Court on charges of narcotics violations.

McGlocklin was arrested on March 14, 1986, after a drug raid was executed in the 2100 block of McCulloh St., where marijuana, hashish, cocaine, heroin, plastic baggies, pipes with residue, large scales and other assorted drug paraphernalia were confiscated, police stated.

According to public records made available to the AFRO, prior to the drug raid in February, police were tipped off by an informant that McGlocklin and the other occupants of the residence were distributing marijuana from inside the house.

The informant stated to police that he was sure this information was true because he had purchased marijuana himself as recent as two months ago from a man he described as "Major."

These same records revealed this informant as being "confidential and reliable," registered with the Western District Drug Enforcement Unit, and in regular contact with police since December of 1985.

Police reported that during the same week, the informant agreed to a controlled purchase of drugs from the defendant. He walked directly to the front door of the residence and knocked on the door.

After a few moments, a man allegedly looked out the second floor front bedroom window and engaged briefly in a conversation with the informant and then handed him a wax paper bag which contained a brown/green material, suspected as marijuana.

The informant then met with Officer Dorsey McVicker, the investigator on the case, and handed over the purchase.

The wax paper bag with the suspected marijuana, as well as cocaine and heroin obtained during the raid were later tested by the Police Department Crime Lab and confirmed to be dangerous substances.

According to police, the premises on McCulloh St. were observed intermittently, however they stated their observations were limited due to the fact that they had already conducted several search and seizure warrants in the area, have made numerous arrests in the general

Postal workers hold 37th annual confab

By Manotti L. Jenkins
AFRO Staff Writer

The National Alliance of Postal and Federal Employees (NAPFE) met in the union's 37th National Biennial Convention in Baltimore's Omni Hotel this week.

The effects of the new organization of the U.S. Postal Service on the management-level positions of black postal workers was the premier focus of the convention.

Robert L. White, president and veteran organizer in the 73-year-old union, explained that as a result of the reorganization, many black management-level postal employees are being forced to leave their positions because of the "elimination of certain levels of management."

White made these remarks Wednesday, the third day of the convention, which lasts until today, when delegates will finalize several resolutions.

"We want to make sure blacks are not adversely affected disproportionately," said White, disclosing that a black woman who held the position as assistant postmaster general was terminated as a result of the elimination of this position.

What's an Orgy?

Planned Parenthood of Maryland this week launched a statewide campaign to encourage sex education sessions with parents and their children, ages 9 to 12.

Their shocking advertisement that will be seen on billboards and on city buses reads "What is an orgy?" Miriam Tillman of Planned Parenthood said the idea is to get peoples attention; thereafter they will respond.

"What is an orgy" is a legitimate question posed by a pre-teenager and so are the 18 other questions on which the campaign is based.

Already since Tuesday, 1,500 calls have been made to Planned Parenthood for copies of the brochures, one of which has a listing of these 19 questions.

This brochure is entitled Test Your Parents' Sex I.Q. The other
