Carrie L. Adams

'Good Samaritan' spreads sunshine

Carrie L. Adams, diminutive, silver-haired lady of grace is recognized by the Baltimore community as one of the most admired Christian missionaries this city has ever known.

She serves humbly as an ambassador for Christ representing the Ray of Hope Baptist Church where the Rev. Charles M. Franklin, Sr. is the pastor and founder.

Adams, better known as "Mama Adams" travels untiringly through the busy streets of Baltimore six days a week with a distinct purpose in mind. Her destination is the city hospitals, nursing homes and private homes where the sick and shut-in can be found.

She is always a cherished and welcomed visitor. When she hears of someone who is ill, she asked only two questions, "Where can the dear soul be found and what is the nearest bus line?"

Oblivious to surrounding danger, Carrie L. Adams appears quite secure in her mission of Christian faith. She arms herself with a sweet spirit, a name, an address, a bus token, her bible and a prayer as she journeys from hospital to hospital, nursing home to private home or wherever the spiritual need guides her.

Mama Adams' infinite concern for a city brimming with physically sick and troubled souls and her willingness to be used by God as a humble missionary servant is dramatized vividly as she ventures through the narrow corridors of Johns Hopkins, Church Home, Union Memorial and countless other hospitals, nursing homes and private homes.

In accordance with God's master plan, Mama Adams may be found feeding the helpless momentarily forgotten patient, running an errand for a disabled shut-in, or sitting quietly in the corner of a room praying.

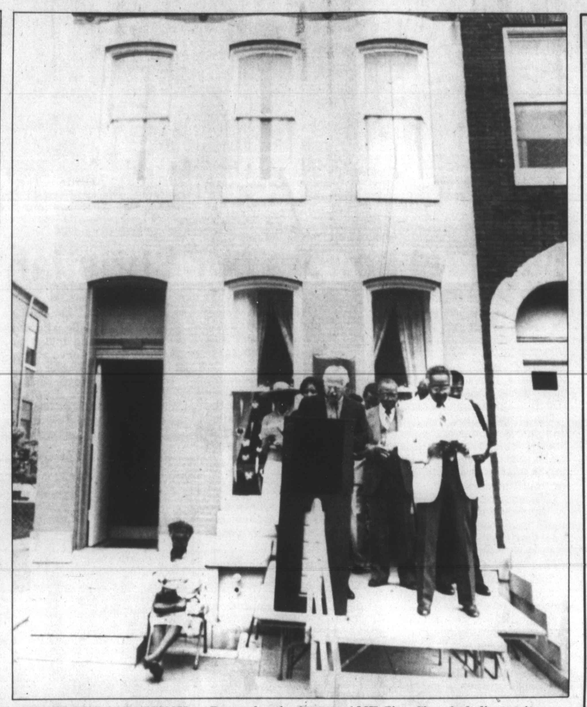

She's sometimes portrayed as a cheery conversationalist bringing the Savior's good news, sharing a church bulletin and relaying greetings from various church members. She's a fascinating example of God's awesome power!

Adams was born Oct. 11, 1907 to John and Rosa Cook in Richland County, South Carolina. She and her brother, John Thomas attended the public schools there.

At an early age, she learned the importance of a formal education and Christian commitment. She grew up as a responsible girl and practiced self-discipline as related to her home chores, school and church.

After completing her elementary grades, Carrie was graduated second in her

REACH OUT AND TOUCH — Pennsylvania Avenue AME Zion Church dedicates its Outreach Center on Saturday to the glory of God and the upbuilding of God's kingdom on earth. Bishop Charles H. Foggie presided at the services.

Pennsylvania Ave. AME Zion opens outreach center

Pennsylvania Avenue AME Zion Church on Saturday hosted a dedication service for the Carpenter House, the church's Outreach Center, which will be run by Zion Outreach Incorporated, a subsidiary corporation of Pennsylvania Avenue AME Zion Church, Inc.

The center is located at 1231 Argyle Ave.

Presiding over the service of dedication was Bishop Charles H. Foggie. Those present to witness the event participated in the service in a responsive dedicatory reading.

Also included in the program was a prayer, scripture reading and two appropriate musical selections.

The Outreach Center will provide family counseling, clothing, food, and personal assistance to members of its community.

Rev. Marshall H. Strickland, pastor of Pennsylvania Avenue said prevailing circumstances reveal the community's need for the Carpenter House.

"The constant ringing of a door bell at the back of a church building gives indication to the pain that exists in the Upton Community." he said.

"Men, women, and children caught in the very throws of life seek that door as a refuge, a resource, and a direction. Many others who look upon that building find themselves intimidated by its presence and the symbols that it projects," said Strickland.

Stickland said the Outreach Center is the church's way of moving directly into the middle of the community where the hurt is. "It provides a warm and familiar atmosphere where trained people whose lives have been committed to Christ fulfill a part of that commitment by reaching towards humanity," Stickland said.

Strickland said the words on the plaque of the Carpenter House give indication to the spirit of the house.

They read: "I was hungry and you fed me, naked and you clothed me, in prison and you visited me; for as much as you have done this for the least of my brethren, you've done it unto me." (Matthew 25:35).

The property for the Carpenter House was owned by the Carpenter family for many years.

The property was offered to the church by representatives of the family over a year ago.

The expertise of various members of the church was used to rehabilitate the facilty and it was named the Carpenter House in honor of the family that gave the property to the church.

A WORD OF HOPE

By Maxine L. Wallace
Church News Editor

"Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidene of things not see." Hebrews 11.1

Faith is believing first and seeing later. Faith is taking God at His Word. It is standing on the promises of God despite the prevailing circumstances and even contradictory evidence that may be at hand.

Perhaps you are sick today . . . The doctors don't know what is wrong with you. The saints of God have even laid hands on you and prayed that God might heal your body and raise yopu up off that bed of affliction. Yet for some reason that pain is still there, that infirmity is still there.

And somehow you feel even as Job felt when one affliction after another began to befall him.

But the Bible says that He was wounded for our transgressions; He was bruised for our iniquities, the chastisement of our peace was upon Him and with His stripes, we are healed.

The Bible says that He was wounded for our transgressions; He was bruised for our iniquities, the chastisement of our peace was upon Him and with His stripes, we are healed.

Yes, you have read these very scriptures . . . and others have read them to you as well . . .

What do you do when all around your soul gives way . . . when those scriptures you have even memorized seem as though they are not true for your life?

Well . . . Let God be true nd every man a liar. For the Word of Godis truth. Hold to the promises of God . . . for they are life to thee.

A song writer said, "My faith looks up to thee, thou lamb of Calvary."

In order to remain steadfast in your faith when going through sickness and affliction, the eyes of your faith must look to Jesus. My friend, you cannot remain steadfast in spirit and strong in your faith if you read God's promises with your physical eyes but not comprehend them with the eyes of your spirit.

In the face of adversity, God is a very present health. Know that weeping may endure for a night, but behold joy cometh in the morning.

The Psalmist David said, "Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me.

Know that God is with you, and the Bible says He will not allow us to sufer any more than what we are able to bear. God wants to work a perfect work in your life.

So you may say why me? Why am I sick? I have done nothing
