THE LIVING CHURCH

class from the Booker T. Washington High School. She continued her education at the Benedict College where she was graduated with an A.B. Degree in Education.

Carrie taught Grade 4 for five years in Georgetown County, SC and five years in Clarendon County, SC.

At an early age, Carrie accepted Jesus Christ as her personal Savior and was baptized at the Zion Baptist Church in Columbia, SC by Reverend J. C. White, who is dead.

She served for fifteen years as the Church Secretary and for eighteen years as a Church School Teacher in the same church.

In 1940, Carrie married the late James O. Adams and in 1941 they moved to Baltimore.

Neighbors in the Highrise Building where Mama Adams has resided for the past fourteen years refer to her as the "Good Samaritan" who is always willing to go that extra mile for anyone. Her telephone stays busy, busy, busy, for she loves to confer with people. No hour has ever been too early or too late to call Mama Adams.

Each day she finds time to interact and uplift the spirit of someone going in or out of her building. Because of her Christian attitude and magnetic personality, she was elected Chaplain of the Tenant Association for this particular housing development.

Carrie Adams describes herself as a servant of the Lord who finds her greatest joy and peace of mind in showing compassion, love and concern for her fellow-man in the sweet name of Jesus. She does not win converts to Christ to leave them. She joins her pastor in checking on the new church members and lets them know how much she loves them and is concerned about them.

Banquet honors our Christian youth

By Maxine L. Wallace
AFRO Staff Writer

Encouragement and praise was given 24 youth church leaders from throughout the state at a banquet given in their honor last Friday at Martin's Champagne Room.

The annual Youth Awards Banquet is sponsored by the Baptist Youth Committee of the Baptist Congress of Christian Education as an incentive for youth leaders.

The honoress were selected by their individual churches based upon their dedication in serving their church as well as in their community.

This year's theme was "Christ Molding Young Leaders," taken from Jeremiah 18:4.

Mable Mabry, coordinator for the banquet said youth today need Christ.

"With all the trauma going on with youth today, if they had Christ in their life, they would turn to Him when they have problems," she said.

"If we had more young church leaders, the world would be stronger and they could bring more young people to Christ."

Mabry said these young people were honored because they are the ones who are the most dependable when called upon. "It was just a way of saying thank you," said Mabry.

Also, Ruth Simms, administrative assistant for Kweisi Mfume represented him in giving words of encouragement to the young people.

She also made a presentation to Albert W. Prater, the out-going president of the Youth Committee and to Bernest Stokling, the out-going vice-president.

Elner Prater, one of the volunteer advisors said the honorees were well deserving of the recognition given them.

"In spite of all the things going on, they have decided to stand for Christ," she said.

"... Young people who are in the church and trying to stand for Christ serve as examples for others" she said.

Rev. Olin P. Moyd, pastor of Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church in Baltimore is the president of the United Baptist Missionary Convention, and Arlene C. White of Macedonia Baptist Church in Baltimore is the president of the Baptist Congress of Christian Education.

Rosalee Thomas was the directress of this year's Annual Youth Banquet.

CREATIVITY ADMIRED — Teresa Smith stopped in to see the works of art on display at Mt. Pisgah's art exhibit.

IF YOU ASK ME

Smile orchids

Smile-of-the-week orchids to Wilson Walters. He is the affable Baltimorean who won $19,000 on the Price Is Right television show aired this week on WMAR.

Many know Mr. Walters as president of the Baltimore chapter of Frontiers International, where we took the accompanying photo of him. He is retired warden of N.Y.'s Sing Sing Prison. He and his wife, Geraldine, the beauty consultant, have remodeled an old Bolton Hill residence in west Baltimore into a place of beauty.

Plenty of sunshine in the voice of Mrs. Carolyn Alexander. She is the wife of Rev. C.C. Alexander, pastor of Eastside Baptist, and vice president of Baltimore Ministers' Conference. He has smiles in his voice, too.

Cuff note: Mrs. Alexander works in the medical records department at Hopkins Hospital, where she has been employed since 1950.

More smiles

Smile orchids to Mrs. Leona Carpenter, who stood straight and tall at the Du Bois Circle 82nd closing meeting on Tuesday. She gave the grace for the dinner meeting attended by some 427 persons at the forum.

And, she carried out her task even though she learned earlier in the day that her brother Howard Williams, was critically ill.

Cuff note: The brother, a Remington, Va. businessman, died on Wednesday. His was the second death in the family in ten months. Sister, Mrs. Rose Johnson, the State Department employee, died in September.

More smile orchids to DuBois Circle president, Mrs. Patelle G. Harris. She presided with grace at the group's closing affair.

So did members Mrs. Roslyn Wood, who gave the program resume, Miss Betty Williams, who presented 20 copies of the W.E.B. DuBois biography to city school deputy super. Dr. Edmonia T. Yates; and Dr. Maxine J. Wood who presented the speaker. Soloist was Ms. Linda Silverthorne. (Her rendition of "True Love is a Many Splendored Thing" was enjoyable.

Cuff note: Dinner speaker was Meldon Hollis, the attorney who is president of the city school board.

In his 45-minute presentation he detailed for the hushed audience — many of them present or retired educators — the readers. "I need you to become involved and supportive."

Excerpt — on substitutes — "It is criminal to have in the classroom, people who did not do well in high school themselves, teaching our children . . . it is just not right . . ."

Mailbag: Ms. Jeanne Cooke who says she is a Catonsville resident and an AFRO reader "for more years than I care to count," writes, she is "very pleased and inspired by her young neighbor, Jerome Collins. He's just 18, and he is a gentleman whose quick smile and cheery hello make your day."

Editor's note: Let this column know the names of people you meet who have smiles in their voices. Write, Smiles, If You Ask Me, Baltimore AFRO-AMERICAN, P.O. Box 1857, Baltimore, Md., 21203, and please smile . . .

About People

On the mend: Central Baptist minister, Rev. Montague J. Brackett, was released from Liberty Medical on Wednesday. He is also the recently retired city fire board member.

Cuff note: He and his wife, Hellen, mark their 50th wedding anniversary next month. Her sister, Mrs. Thelma Howell of N.J., is visiting them this week.

Love note: Baltimore's Dr. and Mrs. Robert M. Phillips Sr. will have a new daughter come May 28. Their son, Dr. Robert M. Phillips, Jr., the medic, weds Lynette Miller, the HMO Executive in her native Flint, Mich. Bridegroom-to-be is certified in internal medicine, serves on Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

People doing thoughtful things: — When members of the Philomathians held their 56th closing luncheon a Saturday ago, they presented special citations to three outstanding young women they picked as "women to watch in 1988-89."

The citations and plaques, presented by member Ellen Howard, went to the following:

NINA BAZE, Western High School senior interested in a law career, and recently accepted at The Johns Hopkins University.

ANNETTE BELL, Telecommunications major and graduating senior at Morgan State University.

DONYELLE DORSEY Morgan State University freshman, Miss Black Maryland, U.S.A. 1988 Fashion Model..
